Dutchess County Fair Set to Be the Largest One Yet

DUTCHESS FAIR OPENS UNDER CLEAR SKIES

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK

The scene appeared chaotic this morning as the potentially largest Dutchess County Fair in history opened its gates to the public at 10 a. m., but manager S. Richard Lloyd said that everything was under control as usual.

The annual event attracted a large opening day crowd under ideal conditions—sunny skies and pleasant temperatures.

The failure of the new Rhinebeck water treatment plant has posed no problem for the fair. Lloyd said no water problem existed, as the fair has its own pumps.

Sights, sounds and smells assailed the senses, with several contemporary themes in displays and exhibits making the 1970 edition of the fair, just a shade different from any of its predecessors.

A plant display in the horticulture building reflected the current fervor over ecology with two large headstones labeled "Indifference" and "Pollution."

Concern for civil rights was proclaimed by the American Civil Liberties Union, which said, "What can be done to one, can be done to all."

A recent addition to the fair is a centrally located New York State lottery booth hawking tickets for the $250,000 event scheduled for Poughkeepsie next month.

And the political emphasis of this fall's elections are mirrored in the large smiling faces looking out from posters. Whether by design or not, the Republican and Democratic booths are situated back to back in one of the large permanent exhibition halls.

Democratic candidate for governor, Arthur Goldberg, is scheduled to tour the fair from 4 to 6 p. m. today.

Horses were warming up on the oval track this morning for two harness racing cards, at 12:30 and 5 p. m., while youngsters put their horses through their paces for both English and western riding contests.

Over in the expansive livestock exhibition area, several youngsters slept curled up on hay bales, oblivious to the noise around them, and obviously worn out from frantic preparations.

Such diverse pleasures as trout fishing (40c for ten minutes in a rectangular swimming pool) and having your picture taken with a live boa constrictor are also mighty temptations.

Hopes were high at the administration office, with an estimate of at least last year's record 155,000 persons forecast, if the weather holds.

Children under 16 will be allowed to enter the fairgrounds free until 6 p. m. today and Thursday.

Stage shows are scheduled 3 and 8 p. m. today, with acts including a "poodle fantasy," comedy juggling and dancing act, a 90-foot aerial show, a slack wire balancing act, and a comedy team.

Other special events slated for today are a Polish Dance Night from 6:30 to 10:30 p. m., with exhibition and public dancing, and a free fireworks show at 9 p. m.

Wednesday's special events include a 9 a. m. pony show, a live band from 7:30 to 10:30 p. m. in the dance tent, the Vagabonds Fife and Drum Corps in the picnic area in the evening, and the fireworks show at 9 p. m.

Thursday is titled "Thrill Show Day" with the Joie Chitwood Thrill Show headlining the grandstand at 8 p. m. This will be the only grandstand show with a charge. Manager Sam Lloyd explained that this was necessary to keep the crowds down.

Adam Walinsky, Democratic candidate for attorney general, and Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. will tour the fair separately on Thursday, and Conservative State Senatorial Candidate James Buckley will attend with his family Sunday afternoon.

The big weekend will feature a jazz festival day Friday, with artists from the Big Bands performing from 8:30 to 11 p. m.; a country and western battle of the bands Saturday from 4 to 6:30 p. m. at the grandstand; and a Sunday Fireman's Day celebration.

Indefinite Lockup for 630

Disciplinary Action for Napanoch Inmates

NAPANOCH, N. Y. (UPI) — A 10-hour sit-down by 630 inmates of the Eastern New York Correctional Facility ended late Monday when the superintendent ordered the protestors to return to their cells or face "appropriate action."

"The inmates knew I meant business," Supt. Maurice M. Blow said. "Shortly thereafter they returned to their cells."

Blow called in all off-duty guards and was reinforced by 80 state policemen and 45 guards from the Green Haven Correctional Facility and Matteawan State Hospital in Beacon. The reinforcements requested by Blow were on stand-by and were not used.

Blow said this morning that the 60 inmates who participated in the sit-down and work stoppage protest on Monday will be "locked in their cells" indefinitely or until they are ready to abide by the institution's rules and regulations.

The protestors had their morning meals served to them in the cells, Blow said. He noted that the breakfast was not like the one that would have been served in the dining hall.

The superintendent said that the leaders of yesterday's incident are known and they will face disciplinary action later. Asked how many inmates were considered leaders of the protest, Blow replied, "about a couple dozen."

The other inmates numbering some 300 went through the regular daily routine today without incident, the superintendent noted.

State Department of Correction Commissioner Paul D. McGinnis said today, "I think the superintendent and all personnel involved did a tremendous job during the incident. There was not one arm raised while the inmates were being put back in their cells, no one was injured and there was no bloodshed."

"I feel the officers showed the excellent training and skill they have received to handle situations such as this."

McGinnis said he is awaiting a full report of the protest.

The protest started Blow said when approximately two-thirds of the prison's 900 inmates walked from breakfast to a recreation area and sat down. A spokesman for the inmates said they were protesting medical care at the institution.

The spokesman said the death Sunday of a convict, Lewis Hankins, 21, of Brooklyn, was due to inadequate medical care.

Blow said Hankins collapsed while playing basketball and was taken to the prison hospital within five minutes, but he was dead on arrival. Ulster County Coroner Arthur Chipp said Hankins died of an attack brought on by a "congenital heart ailment."

"Prompt medical attention had been given him," Blow said.

When the protestors stayed in the recreation area through lunch, Blow said he "refused to address the mob but did meet with their spokesman."

Blow said he then asked state police and the prisons for the extra men. After the protestors sat through the dinner hour, he addressed the inmates at 6 p. m. and they shortly returned to their cells.

"I told the inmates in point-blank words that I would take appropriate action if they did not return to their cells," Blow said. "If I had backed down in any single phase of the operation, I would not be doing my job. And the inmates knew I meant business."

Blow said he did not wish to identify the leaders of the protest.

The 900 prisoners at the institution include several hundred transferred within the past two months from overcrowded New York City jails.

Referring to recent disturbances in the Manhattan House of Detention for Men, also known as The Tombs, Blow said:

"If this same face-the-issue stand had been taken in New York City at The Tombs by those in charge, the situation there would never have gotten out of hand."

Israel, Jordan and Egypt Start Long-Awaited Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — With U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring as go-between, Israel, Jordan and Egypt today open the talks called for in the U.S. peace plan for the Middle East.

Ambassadors from the three Middle East adversaries had appointments in succession at U.N. headquarters with the Swedish mediator who for nearly three years has been trying to nudge the Arabs and Israelis toward a peace agreement.

This procedure of talking to one government and then to another is the one Jarring has followed in the past, and this procedure will continue. The Arabs refuse to negotiate face-to-face with the Israelis, and while U.N. headquarters with the Swedish mediator who for near-some concession on their part, there was no indication that Egypt and Jordan would ever agree to sit down at the same negotiating table with Israel.

Jarring told newsmen he feels sure the three governments have "the firm intention of finding a solution."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant expressed "cautious optimism."

Jarring was meeting today with Israel's chief delegate to the United Nations, Yosef Tekoah; Jordan's ambassador to the United States, Abdul Hamid Sharaf, and Egypt's chief U.N. delegate, Mohammed Hassan El Zayyat.

Sharaf was filling in for Muhammad H. El Farra, Jordan's chief U.N. delegate, who is in Amman for consultations.

Tekoah was sitting in for Foreign Minister Abba Eban, who was named Sunday as Israel's representative at the negotiations. Israel wanted the talks held at the foreign minister's level but made a concession to the Arabs by appointing Tekoah as Eban's alternate and giving him the go-ahead to start negotiating.

Israel said it still hoped the talks could be upgraded, however, and Jarring said he also hoped they "will be elevated to the foreign minister's level."

Eban and the Egyptian and Jor-danian foreign ministers, Mahmoud Riad and Anton Atalla, are all scheduled to come to New York for the U.N. General Assembly opening Sept. 15, and Jarring pointed out that when a foreign minister arrives, he supersedes a chief delegate "automatically."

The indirect talks are the second phase of the peace plan advanced by the United States on June 19 and agreed to by Egypt, Jordan and Israel. The first phase, the 90-day cease-fire, went into effect at midnight Aug. 7.

As their representatives prepared for the talks, Israel and Egypt exchanged charges of cease-fire violations Monday.

Egyptian Information Minister Mohammed Hassanein Heikal charged that the Israelis are building new fortifications and roads along the Suez Canal. It was Egypt's first charge of cease-fire violation.

Israel told U.N. truce observers that Egypt is holding 12 prisoners of war and is violating the cease-fire by not letting the International Red Cross visit them, refusing to let them write letters and refusing to repatriate the wounded. Israel's previous charges of cease-fire violations accused the Egyptians of setting up anti-aircraft missiles close to the Suez Canal.

30 to 40 Horses Killed in Ulster

Horse Breeders Plagued by 'Swamp Fever'

by JON POWERS

WALLKILL

An outbreak of equine infectious anemia, or "swamp fever," has been reported on several large horse breeding farms in southern Ulster and Orange Counties, killing between 30-40 thoroughbreds and standardbreds valued at several thousand dollars.

This report was confirmed Monday by the Ulster County Health Department. Kingston veterinarian Dr. Gilbert Hoppenstedt and more than a dozen farmowners, veterinarians and health officials from New Paltz to Newburgh.

The disease, transmitted by mosquitoes and other blood-sucking insects, has been specifically reported in Gardiner, Wallkill and Pine Bush, with earlier reports extending to the Orange County community of Goshen.

Officials told The Freeman that there is no known cure for the disease and, in fact, its cause had just recently been discovered by a scientist working at the Cornell University laboratories. It was emphasized that the disease is not in any way communicable to humans.

Area doctors were hesitant about terming the recent outbreak an "epidemic," and one official at the State Animal Husbandry clinic in Albany said the situation this year appears to be brighter than previous years.

The "swamp fever" disease has reportedly threatened horses for centuries and cases from throughout the world have been reported in recent years. Dr. Hoppenstedt, however, stated that this year is the first year the disease has been reported in Ulster County.

The most recent outbreak was first reported about six weeks ago. Since that time, about 20 horses from the Ulster County area have died from the disease while another 10-20 have been fatally afflicted in the Orange County area.

According to reports, at least one valuable thoroughbred racecarcass has been killed and its carcass was transferred to Cornell University for an autopsy. Specific breeding farms in the area where the disease has been discovered were not cited and farmowners themselves, while admitting that several cases of the disease have been reported, were not willing to discuss their own operations.

According to doctors in both Orange and Ulster Counties, however, the disease apparently thrives in areas where a large number of horses are housed. The disease, it was noted, is initially transmitted by insects carrying the disease for years without detection.

"Swamp fever," described as a viral type disease affecting the red blood cells, usually causes high temperatures and a swelling of the legs of infected animals. It is not necessarily fatal, it was explained, since some horses may act as chronic carriers, resulting in little or no harm to themselves but often passing the disease on to other horses.

The only way to combat the disease is to prevent further spreading of the virus, and that can be accomplished by isolating those animals known to have the disease.

Newburgh Shooting — Candidate Charged

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Sawyer assaulted him. There were no injuries reported as a result of the alleged firing, police said.

Sawyer was released on $6,500 bail, pending another court appearance Wednesday.

Earlier Monday, Brown, Elijah Price, 20, and Robert Smith, 32, also of Newburgh, were arrested and charged with reckless endangerment after Sawyer accused them of threatening him with a pistol on a downtown street. The three were released on bail to await further action.

Sawyer, who operates a building custodial service, has claimed his life is being threatened by organized crime elements as a result of his stand against drug sales.

The charges were brought by Anthony Valentine, Isaiah Ware, and William Brown, all of Newburgh, who told police that Sawyer shot at each of them with a shotgun in separate incidents on Newburgh's Liberty Street late last Saturday night and early Sunday morning. Ware also charged that

Fish Would Extend Census

KINGSTON

A bill to extend the official filing date of the 1970 Census for two months was introduced by Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr. just prior to the August Congressional recess, it was announced today by the Congressman's Washington office.

"I filed this bill, not because I felt that the census enumerators in our area did not do a dedicated and as thorough a job as possible, but to allow officials in the areas of our District where the total count is in question additional time to locate persons accidentally missed in the normal enumeration process," Congressman Fish said at the time the bill was filed.

Congressman Fish has received formal complaints on the census count from Ulster and Greene Counties, as well as the Cities of Poughkeepsie and Kingston, and the Town of Ulster.

"I feel the enactment of this time extension will show the Federal government to be a responsive agent of the people," Congressman Fish said.

It wrought havoc in Corpus Christi. It devastated areas for miles around. It left a trail of injured and homeless people who need help right now.

Lenefsky: N.Y.C. Ineptness Hurts Us

WEST SHOKAN

David Lenefsky, Democratic candidate for the State Senate, has charged "New York City with gross inefficiency which has unnecessarily forced upstate taxpayers to subsidize the city government."

Lenefsky called for a "New York State study of the fiscal relationship between it and the City of New York," which he said "is essential to relieve upstate residents from an unjust tax burden, and to insure that the city fully utilizes its own financial resources."

"New York City," Lenefsky said, "could increase its revenues by more than $500 million each year by simply establishing a fair, assessment on land. This would result in a substantial reduction of the amount of money the state gives

New York City each year. All independent studies," Lenefsky said, "show that land is shamefully underassessed today in the city. The assessments are so low that land speculators find it profitable to let buildings degenerate and to wait until some public program pays them an unjustly rewarding return. In the past 20 years," Lenefsky continued, "the real property tax increase outside New York City has been very much greater than in the City, in both percentage and amount. Property taxes have increased approximately 400 per cent outside New York City, and by 250 per cent in New York City."

and Ulster taxpayers have a difficult time financing their own needs, without taking on those of New York City as well. We will never create a proper State-City fiscal relationship," Lenefsky concluded, "until we get competent full-time legislators—a trait my opponent (Sen. Jay P. Rolison Jr.) has apparently decided not to acquire during four years in office."

12-Month School Year Under Rhinebeck Study

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK

The matter of a continuing 12-month school year will be further studied by Rhinebeck Board of Education through information from a former member of the governor's committee on that subject.

District Principal Ralph Steeves suggested at Monday evening's board meeting that Alan Flans of Beacon be invited to impart his knowledge on the continuing school year at an early convenient time.

Newly elected board president Hans Boehm initiated discussion of the possibility at the July board meeting. Steeves said Monday, "I don't think anyone of us is in a position to discuss how the continuing school year should affect our community."

He also pointed out that this is purely an academic discussion presently because the state legislature has not passed the act enabling districts to take this initiative.

Steeves reported talking with George Thomas, who was the coordinator of the committee on rescheduling the school year with the State Education Department.

While this committee has been disbanded because of lack of funds, Thomas is reportedly still interested in the idea. Steeves added that while there have been pilot programs studying the 12-month program in New York State, these are completed and none are in progress.

In other business, Steeves noted that the first attempt at an adult education program will "probably begin in October." Details have not yet been worked out as to what courses will be offered.

The board will meet with faculty for talks and a free luncheon Sept. 8 prior to the beginning of classes Sept. 9. It was decided that both fuel oil bids from Kingston Oil Supply and Newcombe Oil were to be rejected, on the advice of business manager Walter Snyder. The prices were "about 60 per cent higher than last year," asserted Boehm, and would "ruin our budget."

The board resolved to accept an as yet unspecified contract through the state from state bidders for number four oil.

The company which subcontracted in roofing the Chancellor Livingston Elementary School has apparently denied responsibility for repairing numerous leaks which have been plaguing the building nearly since its inception, according to Steeves.

"It doesn't seem reasonable to have a classroom with a garbage bucket catching water," he said, and suggested that the district will have to undertake the repairs if the contractor did not have a change of heart.

Board members commented with some good spirits that the tax collection in the district will

The other day Coughlin spotted the same boy in the store. He recognized him and took him in custody, it was said. Coughlin turned the accused youth over to the Juvenile Aid Bureau of the police department for questioning and petitioning into Family Court.

San Quentin . . . A Pre-Trial Test

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — For the first time in the 118-year history of San Quentin Prison, court proceedings have been held within its grim confines. Demonstrators protested at the main gate.

"We're trying it out on an experimental basis," Presiding Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin County Superior Court said Monday as he held pretrial hearings for four convicts accused of crimes within the prison walls.

He set trial date for two of them, indicating that at least one would be tried here despite protests both inside and outside the impromptu courtroom that the defendants were being denied a public trial.

Moving the court here was an outgrowth of the shootout Aug. 7 at the Marin County courthouse in nearby San Rafael. Four persons died as a youth smuggled guns inside a courtroom where a San Quentin convict was on trial. The presiding judge, the youth who brought in the guns and two convicts were shot to death.

Monday's hearing, held in the prison staff training building halfway between the main outer gate and the cell blocks, was technically open to the public. Those attending were required to identify themselves and be scanned with a metal detector. Besides furniture for a full roster of court personnel, there were 50 folding chairs for spectators.

Prison guards in riot gear patrolled quietly outside as sheriff's deputies and bailiffs stood guard inside the courtroom, which had all openings closed and was stifling hot.

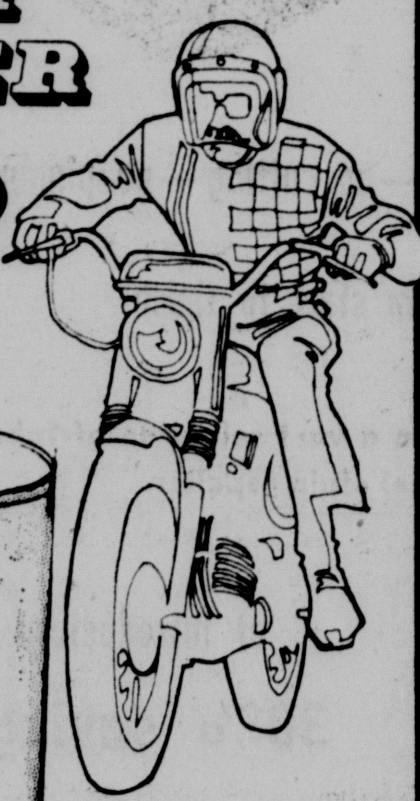

Outside the prison gates, about 150 demonstrators protested that the proceeding was unconstitutional because the prison locale "intimidated" defendants and others.

There were no incidents as FBI men with cameras, listened to speeches by several activist figures, including Tom Hayden, one of those convicted in the Chicago 7 riot trial.

Strike for Equality — Women Primed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rallying round the goals of equal job opportunity, free abortions and 24-hour child care centers, women made final plans today for a Wednesday "strike for equality." One liberationist predicted "this nation will no longer be the same" after the demonstrations.

The National Women's Strike Coalition—with representatives of diverse feminist groups—planned to announce the names of four major corporations whose advertising, the women say, is offensive and degrading, and whose products should be boycotted.

The feminist cause got a boost Monday when Philadelphia Mayor James Tate proclaimed Wednesday "Women's Rights Day." Pittsburgh Mayor Peter Flaherty issued a similar proclamation earlier.

Tate acted after five women surrounded him in the hallway of a city building and complained that other city officials had turned down their request. "I'm all for women's rights," said the mayor. "I'm all for women. I used to be pretty good with them when I was younger."

The proclamation reads, in part, "The cradle of liberty is apparently fearful of being rocked and is currently only willing to formally acknowledge that women may vote."

The Aug. 26 date of the strike was chosen to coincide with the 50th anniversary of final ratification of the 19th Amendment, which gave women the right to vote.

"After the vote," says Betty Friedan, one of the leaders of the National Organization of Women—NOW—"we haven't come such a long way baby. But we do have a movement. When those 24 hours (of Aug. 26) are over, this nation will no longer be the same. No one will be able to think the women's movement has been turned off, subverted or laughed away."

The demonstrations will take a variety of forms. There will be the traditional rallies, speeches, marches and work-stops in many areas, including New York, Washington, Detroit and Boston.

In addition, however, women are being urged not to perform household chores they consider menial—"don't iron while the strike is hot," to bring their children to their husbands' offices and to reject the role of consumer and stop buying for one day.

Counter-demonstrations were planned by some women who said they're liberated enough. A group called MOM—Men Our Masters—dubbed Wednesday "Preserve Femininity Day."

In St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Jean Cordes, a business executive, asked women to ignore the strike and make Wednesday "be nice to a man day."

In Santa Barbara, Calif., Mrs. Helen Andelin urged women to be "charming, angelic and kitten-like" and serve their husbands breakfast in bed.

There were these other developments Monday:

—Mayor John V. Lindsay signed executive orders putting a formal end to discrimination on the basis of age or sex in New York City employment and in the execution of contract work for the city.

—The Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee said that despite the ban on sex discrimination in the 1964 Civil Rights Act, women still faced "blatantly disparate treatment" that is worse now than it was five years ago.

—And in Chicago, Carol Moore, a research chemist at Northwestern University, filed a $100 million sex discrimination suit in U.S. District Court charging two brokerage houses violated her civil rights by refusing to sell her commodities futures. She named Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith and the firm of Smith & Laitson Co., Inc.

For others not manning the barricades she suggests a few ways of being nice to their men: dress up, use a good perfume, make a special dinner and keep the kids quiet.

On Wednesday, she will treat "a pretty special man in my life" to dinner.

Some jobs are just not for women, she contends. "I have never quite understood what is bugging the women's lib leaders except that a lot of them really don't like men or

'More With Sugar . . .' This Gal Opposes Action

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A 42-year-old business executive who calls herself a "liberated woman" is asking other members of her sex to forego the strike called for Wednesday by the National Women's Strike Coalition and instead make it "be nice to a man day."

"You get more with sugar than vinegar," said Jean Cordes. As head of the Aunt Mary Division of Lisle Ramsey Portraits, Inc., Mrs. Cordes supervises about 350 women in some 100 cities.

While she supports some of the movement's goals for equality of the sexes, Mrs. Cordes said she can't go along with "their abrasive methods and their self-destructive bitterness."

"I'm afraid they're going to make all of us—the silent majority of women included—victims of a male backlash that is certain to result from their tirades," she said.

Strike activities include marches, rallies, seminars, and a boycott of products the movement contends insult women in their advertisements.

Mrs. Cordes, who has a son 16 and daughter 15, was divorced last fall. She said the breakup was not due to her years as a working wife.

She began with the firm 12 years ago, selling family portrait plans part time.

Mrs. Cordes says women should be paid the same as men when they do similar work, but women should "get ahead on their own without expecting special consideration."

Some jobs are just not for women, she contends. "I have never quite understood what is bugging the women's lib leaders except that a lot of them really don't like men or

Pressure From the Governor

WASHINGTON — Responding to pressure from Arch Moore, the hot-tempered Republican governor of West Virginia, United Press International reassigned its veteran state capital reporter to another job.

When the reporter, Fanny Seiler, resigned in protest, UPI hired a member of Moore's own public relations staff to cover the capital.

This astonishing sequence came after Miss Seiler, a witty and hard digging reporter, had written a number of penetrating stories which the thin-skinned Moore didn't like.

One of her stories blew the lid on a state tax purchasing scandal. Another disclosed that the governor, in a matter of months, had squandered $6,000 in badly needed public funds on flowers.

She also infuriated Moore by reporting that he had sent the official state airplane to Washington to bring his teenage son back to Charleston for a party at the governor's mansion.

The governor tried a variety of ways to force her to report the news the way he wanted. On one occasion, she was refused access to a briefing in his office which was attended by other reporters.

Another time, she was summoned before the governor's press secretary, Norm Yost, for a tongue lashing. She found the governor and his administration increasingly uncooperative.

Several times, the governor's complaints were taken to the chief of the Charleston bureau and even to UPI's division headquarters at Pittsburgh.

Still, she refused to be intimidated. UPI stood by her until a new bureau chief, Bob Welling, took over in Charleston in May.

Late the following month, Welling met privately with the Governor at the capital while Miss Seiler was out of town. Moore complained that Miss Seiler had been unfair and inaccurate.

Several weeks later, Welling removed Miss Seiler indefinitely from the statehouse beat she had covered for five years. She remembered Welling telling her, "I'm tired of having them (the Moore administration) going to Pittsburgh with their complaints."

"The only reason he mentioned for my being taken off the beat was that I was not getting along with the governor," she told this column.

Indignant, Miss Seiler resigned. Welling hired John Scott, a pulman for Moore's highway safety program to cover the capitol.

In a telephone interview with my associate, Brit Hume, Welling gave this explanation of his actions:

"The governor and I did have a meeting to discuss things. It was a mutual exchange of concerns. Several of Fanny's stories that he thought were unfairly handled were discussed...."

"Apparently she had become known as anti-Arch and anti-administration and we had problems in getting through to people in the administration. I felt that UPI was the loser, that she was doing a disservice to the company and to our clients."

Welling stressed that he also was unhappy with the quality of Miss Seiler's writing and that he felt she had been allowed to have the choice statehouse beat to herself for too long.

Asked why he hired a man from Moore's staff, Welling said Scott was the only newsman with state capital experience available. "I know he's a Republican and I assume he's close to Arch," Welling acknowledged.

Footnote: Miss Seiler, who was the senior member of the UPI's West Virginia staff with nine years' experience, had previously been offered the job of bureau chief. She had no trouble getting another position. The Charleston Gazette hired her immediately.

Cat Hazard

The nation's top experts on cat diseases will meet behind closed doors at Cornell University next month to investigate the grim possibility that the popular "dry rations" for cats may actually endanger the pets' lives.

The rations are produced by Ralston Purina, the giant of the industry, and other old, respectable firms and offer a welcome change from can openers and the stale half-can of cat food in the refrigerator. But veterinarians, including some clinical researchers, are worried about the increase in a bladder disease called feline cystitis and some vets have tied it to the dry cat foods.

Dr. Max Decker, director of scientific activities for the American Veterinary Medical Assn., told this column from Chicago that "dry rations and cystitis" will be discussed during the meeting in Ithaca. He insisted that the closed door policy has nothing to do with whether the discussions will hurt the big cat food makers. Rather "its to get a relatively free exchange going."

"The clinical veterinarians will say there is a distinct association between the dry cat foods and the disease. But some researchers feel it is caused by a virus (like the cold, or pneumonia) and thus is unrelated to dry foods."

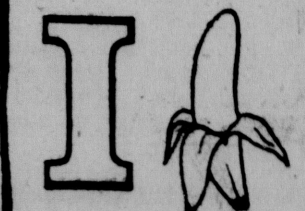

Ralston Purina's chief animal nutritionist, James Corbin, supervises the firm's 550-cat test center outside St. Louis. Corbin contends preliminary results of his studies show that cats on dry rations and on canned food suffer an equal number of cases of cystitis.

"We say if a cat has cystitis on dry rations, try canned. If he has it on canned, try dry." As to the concerns of veterinarians about "dry rations," he said: "Many veterinarians feel they have to have something to point the finger to."

Cat owners are dependent on such meetings. The Food and Drug Administration scrutinizes food for humans. But only limited powers in the Agriculture Department and in the Federal Trade Commission touch on protection of pets.

Television's Equal Time

This business of equal time on television is reaching the ridiculous with the edict of the Federal Communications Commission that a foe of President Nixon's war policies must have equal exposure with him on the tube.

When President Nixon speaks about Vietnam he does so as the commander in chief of the U. S. armed forces. There is no higher, no more authoritative, voice. Whether or not he speaks the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, he alone, can say our boys are coming home. He alone can say when those folks with sons "over there," whether or not they voted for President Nixon, whether or not they are Republicans or Democrats, want to hear what he has to tell them about their loved ones. No one else can adequately fill that bill.

Until such time as the President lets them down, and is proved to have misled them on a matter so dear to their hearts as the war, there is no reason why the people should want to turn to anyone else for the score on Vietnam. Name any opponent you want, in or out of Congress, and ask if he can speak with the authority of President Nixon. He must be an "appropriate" spokesman, the FCC has ruled, meaning, we expect, that he will be chosen from some representative group of dissidents. But when all is said and done, the best he can do is to quarrel with the President's war policies. He has no message.

Actually, there could be more acrimony over whom the "appropriate" spokesman will be than anything else. The networks apparently will make the selection, and it will be interesting to see the basis on which they make their choice.

Mr. Nixon has made five TV speeches on Vietnam. All have had some information for the American people, news they could have got from no one else. It has been charged that the President, besides bringing a message on Vietnam to the people, doesn't neglect the cause of the Republican party. Of course he doesn't. But the people expect that. When they elected him they were also electing the Republican party to run the country for four years, just as when they elected his Democratic predecessors, John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson, to run the country for eight years.

The White House, aroused by Democratic charges that Mr. Nixon is getting too much time on TV, made a study, according to U. S. News and World Report. It shows that in a comparable 18-month period, President Kennedy used 25 hours in 50 appearances, Mr. Johnson 11 hours in 35 appearances and Mr. Nixon 13 hours in 40 appearances.

Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Johnson, too, resorted to television when they thought they had a message for the American people. They, too, didn't hesitate to put their party's best leg forward. And so it must be. Nothing can change the fact that the "ins" have a TV advantage. But they also are the keeper of the government, and only they have the information the public must have.

Unsafe Water Survey

UNSAFE WATER SURVEY—A 1969 federal survey of nearly one-tenth of the country—nine areas inhabited by 18.2 million people—resulted in finding that five in 100 Americans drink hazardous, or potentially hazardous, water.

The survey also found that most of America's water supply is safe and most of the problems are in small towns and villages except for a variance in water quality in the entire state of Vermont. Officials of the Bureau of Water Hygiene made the survey.

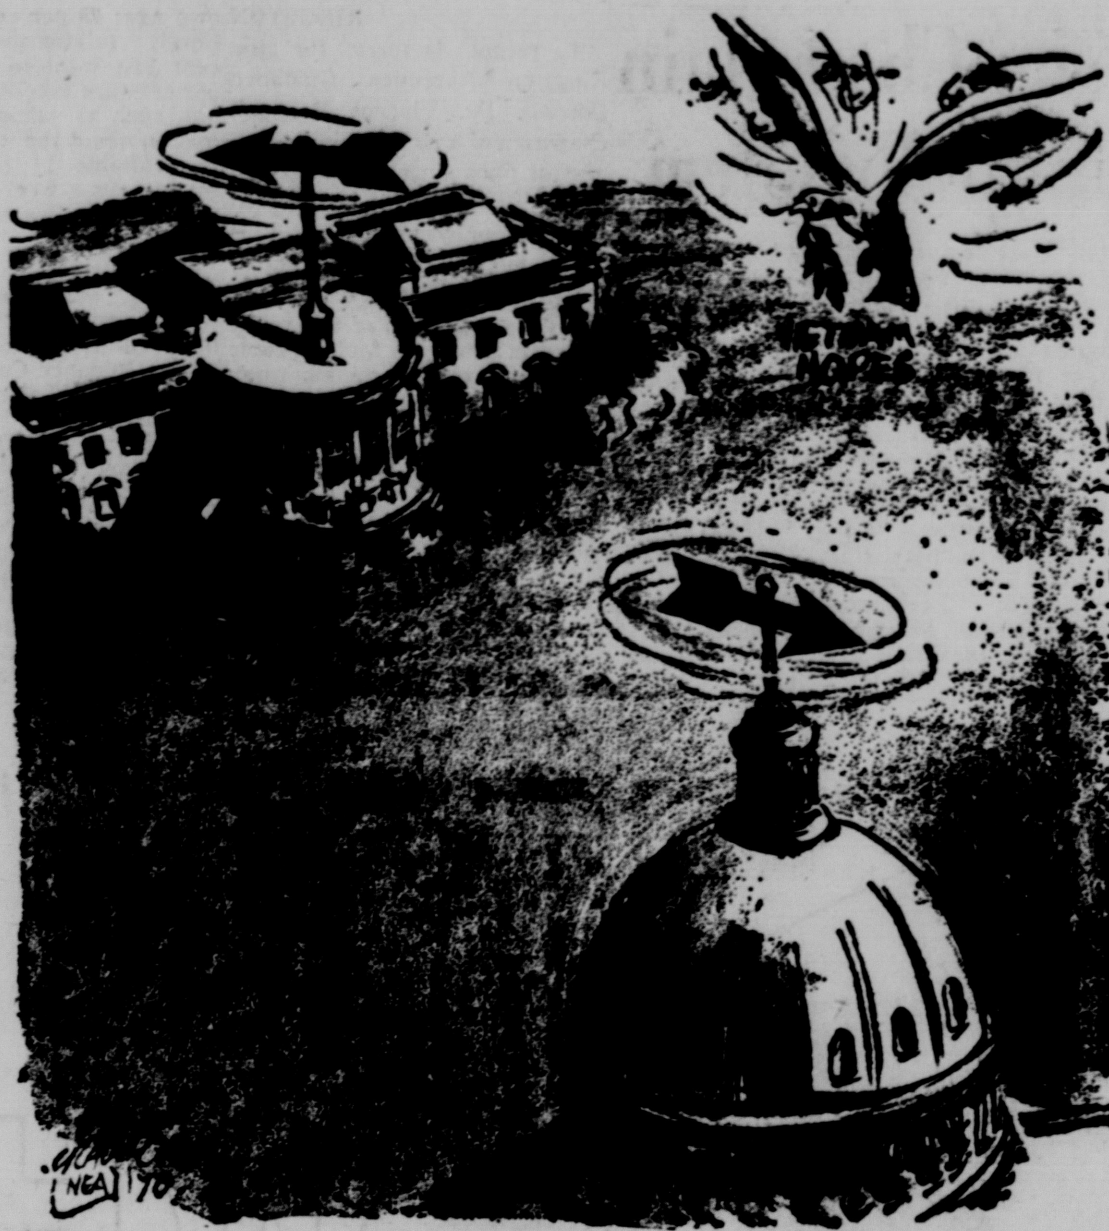

The hazardous findings are not to be minimized. Two of five Americans exposed to water hazards are drinking water with more than the Public Health Service's mandatory limit of lead, a subtle and dangerous poison. Two others are drinking water with more than mandatory limits of bacterial contamination from human or natural excrement.

Others are drinking water with hazardous amounts of such pollutants as arsenic, chromium, and selenium. Of those surveyed, 11 per cent are drinking water of "inferior" quality—safe but smelly or bad tasting or including various undesirable constituents.

Of the entire country, the report said that deficiencies in personnel and equipment justify real concern over the ability of most cities and towns to deliver adequate quantities of safe water in the future. Water and sewage treatment plants are the quickest means to reach safe levels for drinking water.

David Lawrence Says

The Role of Agnew

WASHINGTON—"Liberals" have long championed the right of free speech, but are they beginning to seek its privilege only for themselves?

A recent speech by a "Liberal" Senator accuses Vice President Spiro T. Agnew of being the only man in our history who has used the power of his official position to pistol-whip political opposition into submission. Another allegation by the senator is that "monopolistic government manipulations of public opinion" have placed the Bill of Rights in great danger, and he says control of radio and television is being taken "by the current, repression-minded administration."

These are not new charges. Ever since Mr. Agnew pleaded for fair treatment for the administration by the broadcast media, he has been accused by critics of getting ready to impose some kind of censorship. But the Vice President has no such power. Congress alone prescribes the authority of Federal Communications Commission over radio and television, and the courts can uphold or declare invalid any of the commission's regulations found to be at variance with the rights granted under the "freedom of speech" or "freedom of press" clause of the Constitution.

Vice President Agnew cannot initiate legislation. He cannot give orders to the Federal Communications Commission or appoint or remove any of its members. So it remains a mystery just how those senators who have been charging that he is about to run the communication system of the country think he can perform this feat. Another pertinent question that may be asked is whether the President of the United States would ever permit it.

The only conclusion that can be reached is that, because of the popularity Spiro Agnew has attained, some of the Democratic senators have begun attacks on him in the belief either that this will turn attention away from the issues in the current election campaign or that it will weaken the vice president's prestige, which has been growing in rather spectacular fashion on the Republican side.

Under the Constitution, a vice president really holds no power at all in the executive branch of the government, and many a president didn't even have an office for the vice president in the building where the president stationed his staff. Most of the vice presidents spent their time on Capitol Hill. For it is the constitutional obligation of the vice president to act in certain circumstances as a member of the United States Senate—namely, to preside over that body and to cast the deciding ballot in case of a tie. As the presiding officer of the Senate, the vice president keeps in touch with the legislative process.

Nowadays, not only is the vice president given an office in the executive building but he attends important conferences with cabinet officers. The idea is that he should become well acquainted with the duties of a president so that in an emergency he can take over the task as chief executive with a background of knowledge which otherwise it would take a long time for him to acquire. But he is still not a member of the executive branch of the government. Senators who try to convey the impression that he can sweep away the "Bill of Rights" are ignoring the Constitution.

Meanwhile, President Nixon, recognizing that Mr. Agnew is considered a convincing defender of the administration on a number of controversial issues, now has sent him to Asia on a nine-day trip. It is the second journey he will have made to that continent within the last eight months. The purpose is to let America's allies there know that the United States is withdrawing its forces from South Vietnam but is not withdrawing its support for the principle of self-determination of their own forms of government by the peoples of Asia.

President Nixon feels that personal reassurance by his own vice president is an effective way to keep up the spirits of the government of the various countries in Asia which are allied with the United States.

Abortion Con

Editor, The Freeman
God must surely look down on his beloved people he created and weep.

How long are we going to permit this senseless slaughter to continue. We cry for our sons when they go off to war, and at least they can defend themselves. Who cries for the defenseless baby ripped from the warm security of his mother's womb. Does he have no rights, no chance at all?

I fear getting old. The baby's lucky enough to be born today may become the executioners of tomorrow. Stand up and shout. Let yourself be heard. You may save a baby today.

Stable Population

Editor, The Freeman
I was deeply distressed by your editorial of August 20 "100 Million Less of Us." Your casual dismissal of the problems of overpopulation is unwarranted according to many leading scientists and statesmen.

As population increases pollution spreads, crime rates climb and natural resources are diminished. Our schools, hospitals and transportation systems can hardly cope with our present numbers. The already overburdened taxpayers cannot absorb the financial strains of providing public facilities for our expanding population. Our problems are compounded in inadequate water supply and waste disposal systems.

The foul air of the recent invention that engulfed the eastern seaboard was a result of too many people and too many internal combustion engines. The accompanying power shortage was indicative of future problems if we insist on reproducing indiscriminately. Is this the price to pay for the increased industrialization that is necessary to maintain a high standard of living for a growing population?

World Bank President Robert McNamara stresses the need for immediate action to keep population growth under control. "There is time—just barely time—to escape.... A humane but massive reduction in the world rate of population growth must be made."

If we shrink that responsibility we will have committed the crime. But it will be those who come after us who will pay the undeserved—and unpayable—penalties. Only when we achieve a stable population can our efforts to fight pollution, depletion of natural resources, crime and social chaos prove fruitful. Therefore the goal of our country should be for a zero population growth.

Anti-Fluoridation.
Editor, The Freeman
Sodium Fluoride? Yes, people are still asking," what is it?

According to my World Book Encyclopedia—Sodium Fluoride. See Insecticide (Stomach Poisons) Sodium fluoride is effective against cockroaches, crickets, which is sodium fluoaluminate, is used against the bean beetles and insects that attack other crops.

What is the difference between chlorination and Fluoridation of water supplies?

Chlorine gas is used as a germicide and purifies the water by acting on disease-bearing germs such as typhoid. The chlorine gas diminishes in strength as it is used up in the purifying process. It is not intended to reach the consumer for any action in his body.

Fluoride is added in the water as a solid, not as fluorine gas. The fluoride chemical has nothing to do with water supply treatment; it does nothing to ensure the safety or potability of the water, it is tasteless, with no warning of excess. The fluoride chemical is intended to reach the consumer in undiminished strength for the purpose of acting within the bodies of children where their teeth are forming. It becomes compulsory for all who drink the water to partake of medication. Dental decay is not communicable.

The late Michael Wollan, a graduate of Yale Law School and research assistant at the National Law Center of George Washington University wrote an article "Controlling the Potentials Hazards of Government—Sponsored technology and cited Fluoridation as a Government Sponsored Hazard. It appeared in a leading law journal The George Washington Law Review.

Water is still my favorite drink and I like it pure.

No Ransom, Pan Am Decision

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—To a youngster whose trans-Pacific flight was interrupted by a bomb threat, it merely meant that "we got to see another movie."

To an adult, headed with his wife for a Hawaiian vacation, it meant not only "free champagne, but also anything else he wanted."

But to a Pan American World Airways spokesman, the second extortion threat in history and the second one this month was much more serious. He said it had "obviously... set a new pattern."

Pan Am, convinced the threat was a hoax, refused to pay the $100,000 demanded and flew its Honolulu-bound jetliner back to San Francisco with 148 aboard, including two babies.

A 2½-hour search here failed to find an explosive and flight 817 resumed its trip to Hawaii.

Tate Victims Under Drugs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two victims in the Sharon Tate murder case were under the influence of a hallucinogenic drug similar to LSD when they were stabbed to death, the coroner says.

The two-coffee heiress Abigail Folger and Polish playboy Wojciech Frykowski—had taken the drug MDA, autopsy reports showed. But their wounds indicated they put up a violent struggle against their killers.

Coroner Thomas T. Noguchi, testifying as a state witness, discussed the autopsy findings Monday at the murder-conspiracy trial of Charles M. Manson,

35, hippie-type clan leader, and three girl followers—Susan Atkins, 21, Patricia Krenwinkel, 22, and Leslie Van Houten, 20. Miss Folger and Frykowski were houseguests at Miss Tate's mansion the night of Aug. 9, 1969, and were slain along with the pregnant actress, hair stylist Jay Sebring, and Steven Parent, a friend of the caretaker.

Noguchi said Miss Folger, who shared a bedroom at the Tate home with Frykowski, had 2.4 milligrams of MDA in her blood and a .05 per cent alcohol. Frykowski, he said, had .6 milli-

A narcotics officer said outside court that 2.4 milligrams of MDA probably would put a person fully under its influence. He said the drug often causes hallucinations similar to the effects of LSD.

No drugs or alcohol were found in either Miss Tate or Sebring, Noguchi said. Tests on Parent showed .2 per cent alcohol.

An officer said the amounts of alcohol found in Miss Folger and Parent probably would not cause intoxication.

Noguchi said Miss Folger and Frykowski, who both died of multiple stab wounds, had "defense wounds" on hands and arms, indicating they tried to fend off the killers.

He said Miss Folger obviously was "trying to guard herself from further injury" and Frykowski put up a long, violent struggle.

The coroner said Miss Folger was stabbed 28 times in the face, neck, breast, abdomen, back, shoulder, left thigh and both arms and hands. Frykowski, he said, was stabbed 51 times, any seven of which could have been fatal, and was shot twice and hit on the head 13 times, perhaps with a gun butt.

Noguchi said Sebring bled to death after being shot once and stabbed seven times.

Noguchi said last Friday that Miss Tate was stabbed 16 times, and rope burns indicated she also was hanged.

The coroner said none of the Tate victims was sexually molested or dismembered.

He said the same type of weapon inflicted all 102 stab wounds and added: "I would say it was a strong stabbing weapon... it had to be very strong."

He said the weapon or weapons would have been at least five inches long and 1½ inches wide.

NUNS ON A STROLL—Indian nuns stroll in the garden of their convent in Genoa, Italy, after the Vatican announced it has suspended the practice of recruiting poor Indian girls to become nuns in European convents. The London Sunday Times said the girls were "sold" to the convents for up to $750 each. The Vatican said the allegations were exaggerated and sensational. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

Diphtheria Could Spread

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government disease detectives say limited outbreaks of diphtheria, the ancient child killer, could spread across the United States, with ghettos especially vulnerable.

They implied that any city in which half the children are not immunized could face an epidemic such as the one sweeping San Antonio, Tex.

A recent survey showed San Antonio had immunized only about half its children, compared with 70 per cent for comparable cities of 700,000 population. The city has listed 66 cases of the vicious disease this year—30 of them this month.

Experts of the U.S. Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta say 75-85 per cent of the nation's children are immunized against diphtheria, but they rate this as only fairly good.

The experts said in an interview that 23 states do not require pre-school shots with the triple DPT vaccine against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus or lockjaw.

Those states are Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North and South Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming. They said that for maximum safety against all three maladies, children should get three shots of the triple vaccine a month apart, beginning at about 3 months of age—followed by a booster shot at age 1; another booster upon entering school; and a booster every 10 years thereafter.

Senate Divided on Career Plan To Make Service More Attractive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with Nixon administration opposition, a divided Senate debates today whether to make a military career so attractive volunteers would eliminate the need for the draft.

The White House contends the proposal, backed by an unusual coalition of liberals and conservatives, would cost billions and throw the budget further out of balance.

A vote could come late today. The fate of the measure, sponsored by Sens. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., and Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., could depend on the number of votes at in a speech prepared for Senate delivery today, advised his colleagues to move slowly on the problem.

"Honest differences still exist even among the experts concerning the practicality and effect of a volunteer army," Case said.

"Not the least of these is the possible development of an officer military elite relatively isolated from the mainstream of American life and enlisted ranks manned even more than they are now by the poor and underprivileged of America," Case said.

He said he agrees with President Nixon's proposed 20 percent minimum pay increase for recruits as a first test of the proposition that better pay can attract sufficient volunteers.

"It is, I believe, a course preferable to the immediate and total abolition of the draft," Goldwater and Hatfield have said repeatedly their amendment would not abolish the draft.

It would provide a trial period during which officials could observe whether increased inducements result in increased volunteers.

The White House said it still is committed to replacing the draft at the earliest possible date—but not now.

"By voting against the amendment, senators will be sabotaging any chance that the draft can be permitted to die next year," Goldwater said.

"We are not voting to abolish the draft here and now. We are

Buckley Committee To Meet Wednesday

KINGSTON — The Ulster County Republicans for Buckley Committee will hold its second meeting Wednesday 8 p.m. in the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

All enrolled Republicans in Ulster County who wish to support the candidacy of Buckley are encouraged to attend, a spokesman said.

A nominating committee will present names for election of officers.

Temporary chairman John Egan said today that the expressions of support that surfaced after the first meeting held Aug. 21 are "fantastic."

He said "solid dedicated Republicans from all over the county are calling in support for Buckley. They feel that Jim Buckley is the real Republican in the race for the U.S. Senate."

It is also expected that a field representative from the state-

Two Are Jailed In Catskill Drug Arrests

CATSKILL — Two youths were arrested Monday afternoon by Leeds State Police on narcotics charges after they were found in possession of a quantity of marijuana.

James Nuebel, 20, of East Williston, was cited for criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree and possessing an implement — a pipe — adapted for the use of drugs. Carl Weston, 17, of Long Beach, was charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs sixth degree.

BCI Investigator R. I. Ryan and Trooper A. G. Parker arrested the pair before Cairo Town Justice Howard Miller.

The youths pleaded guilty to each charge and fines of $25 on each count were levied. In lieu of payment of the fines the two were committed to Greene County jail.

Sergeant R. W. Miller said Nuebel and Weston were swimming in a creek off Route 23A near here when they were called from the water for questioning by the troopers. The investigation disclosed the marijuana and pipe.

Investigator Ryan and Troop T troopers early today arrested Richard Janowitz, 23, of New York City, after they stopped him on the State Thruway in the Town of Catskill and found him in possession of amphetamines and marijuana.

Janowitz was taken before Catskill Town Justice Charles Link. He pleaded innocent and was committed to the Greene County jail pending a hearing and further investigation.

Bail was set at $500 apiece following arraignments of all those arrested except the two with felony charges.

One person was able to make bail. The rest were held at Warren County jail in Glens Falls. State and town of Lake George police participated in the raid.

Over the weekend, eight persons were charged with sale and possession of mescaline.

Tension Seen as Cause of Migration to Australia

SYDNEY (AP) — Tension in the United States is the main reason for an increase in the number of Americans migrating to Australia. This is the conclusion of a survey by the psychology section of the government's Immigration Department.

The investigation indicated that unlike the majority of the 1.6 million migrants—mainly from Britain and Europe—who have settled in Australia since World War II, Americans are not seeking higher salaries, better housing or even job advancement.

"They just want to get away," said an immigration official.

The number of American migrants is still small: The estimated 3,600 this year is fewer than 2 per cent of Australia's annual intake. But it is increasing: 10 years ago only 780 Americans came here as settlers.

Australia has maintained a hands-off policy toward the United States as a migrant source. The Canberra government has been anxious to avoid being accused of "people-poaching."

This attitude is changing. Immigration Minister Phillip Lynch, 36, says: "The United States is a growing source of valuable high-quality migrants."

Australia has immigration offices in New York, Washington and San Francisco. Two bureaus, in Chicago and Los Angeles, are scheduled to open soon.

The new offices do not necessarily herald a move for an all-out campaign, but merely a wish to serve potential migrants better and to cope with the increasing flow of inquiries.

Two years ago, there were 76,000 inquiries. This jumped to 100,000 last year. In the first six months of 1970 the total was 61,664.

The only aggressive step has been taken by the state government of New South Wales in its effort to overcome a critical teacher shortage.

Independently, the state's Education Department reached the same conclusions about tension as the survey. It advertised: "Teach in the happy country down under."

The response was astounding, with 11,000 Americans asking further information to the one than a year.

Fifty-three of these interviewed were married with children, 29 married with no children, and 37 single people.

The families were almost unanimous: They wanted to escape the tension and pressure of life in the United States, still found the average basic wage for a year in the last 10 years—one in four leaving. The suggestion is that greater affluence and accustomed mobility play a large part in this.

This is supported by the fact that the people interviewed, though they felt the 93 per cent said they would add lower salaries had equivalent vise others to migrate to Australia was a wish to travel, buying power and, in any case, Australia.

School Costs Up, Willingness to Pay Down

By JOAN HANAUER
United Press International
The cost of public education in the United States is going up and the willingness of the taxpayer to foot the bill is going down.

on school budgets and construction bonds. Increasingly they are voting no.

A nationwide survey by UPI to discover how the public schools stand on the eve of the new term in September came up with these examples:

In Michigan, three districts have asked the state board of education to allow them to hold less than full-day classes because of financial troubles stemming from voter refusal to approve tax proposals that would pay operating costs. They include Lansing, fourth largest city in the state; Lincoln Park, a middle-sized Detroit suburb; and Charlotte, a small town.

In Ohio, one school district will be unable to open until late fall because voters failed to approve sufficient operating levies. Two others are in immediate danger. Many more schools are operating on state advances of subsidy money. When the advances run out, they will be in trouble. Last year 10 Ohio schools were forced to close for lack of funds during the winter — some for over a month — affecting 18,749 students.

In Missouri, voters in suburban Kirkwood in St. Louis County have stubbornly turned down a descending scale of tax hikes five times this year and will vote Sept. 1 on retaining the present tax scale. Schools Superintendent W.A. Shannon called operating on the old tax rate "a situation we can live with, but not one which will contribute to continued improvement of our schools."

He refused to speculate on what would happen if voters turned down the present levy.

In St. Charles, Mo., the voters have consistently defeated a tax increase and the school board recently announced it would keep submitting the tax proposal every three weeks until it passed.

While some of the school districts with money troubles are areas with a low tax base, many are middle-class to rich. A prime example is Scarsdale, a downright well-to-do New York suburb in Westchester County.

Scarsdale defeated a school budget for the first time in its history this year. Virtually the same budget was defeated on a second vote. The voters were given a third opportunity to vote on the budget — this time with the warning that the alternative was an austerity budget on which, according to state law, they would not be able to vote. They gave in and accepted the proposed budget, and a tax hike.

School Board President Leonard Howard might have been speaking for his colleagues from coast to coast when he called the Scarsdale voter rejection "symptomatic of the times" and added:

"We're victims of the voters' bitterness against taxes and inflation. We can't do anything about the causes of inflation or the fact that school budgets have to come from property taxes, but we'll do the best we can within the law."

The problem involves both rising school operating and construction costs, and the sources of the funds to pay them.

40 Pieces of Cyprus Pattern

Museum Gets Gift of Fine China

KINGSTON Conn., formerly of Saugerties, England from 1794 to his death in 1834. A collection of Ironstone China was given in memory of his wife, Laura Finger Davis who was born at Cossackie Nov. 17, 1897 and died June 25 of this year. The collection represents 50 years of amazing the 40 pieces made by famous English potter John Davenport in the Cyprus pattern. The china was a gift of Alvin Davis Sr. of Seymour, Conn. to the Kingston House Museum recently and is currently on display at the uptown site.

The trademarks used by the Davenports varied through the years. In early days the mark consisted of the word "Davenport" on a crescent-shaped banner supported by two pillars. The pillars in turn rested on a bar bearing the words "stone china," while between the pillars stood an anchor. Another mark, used later, consisted of the word "Davenport" on an inverted U-shaped banner enclosing an anchor. Variations of this mark bear the words "Davenport" or "Longport" over an upright anchor, the banner being omitted. Later still, having been chosen potter for George IV, Davenport used a royal crown over the words "Davenport," "Longport," and "Staffordshire," one above the other, in letters of diminishing size. At times, also, Davenport was marked by a simple six-petaled flower.

It was during this period that certain of the English potters, notably Wood, Clews, Ridgeway, Stevenson and a few others, were exporting to America what is known as "Historic Blue China," bearing American landscapes, and such objects as buildings, and views of the great engineering projects of the day, notably the Erie Canal, and the Mohawk and Hudson Railroad. Yet, perhaps due to the volume of his business in other directions, Davenport does not seem to have entered the American market to any great extent. One collector in recent years remarked that he had found but one example of Davenport china on this side of the Atlantic and that was in Montreal, this piece bearing a picture of local interest.

The patterns used on Staffordshire china varied greatly, but by all odds the most familiar one is the "Willow" pattern, if one accepts under this name all its variations. The pattern was borrowed from the Japanese who originated it, and who were selling large quantities of their wares in both Europe and America. This was the day of the famous Clipper ships. Americans wishing to buy goods commissioned the supercargo or fiscal agent aboard a vessel, to make their purchases for them. Thus it was that the Clippers brought china and pottery from Japan by the great shipload.

One of Davenport's patterns, examples of which have been found in the United States, was titled "Cyprus." It is an adaptation of the Willow pattern, with a scene distinctly oriental. Notable contemporaries of Davenport who made use of the "Willow" pattern were Spode, Ridgeway, and Minton. Indeed it is probable that Minton was the first English potter to use it, for there are examples of Minton ware bearing this pattern as early as 1780.

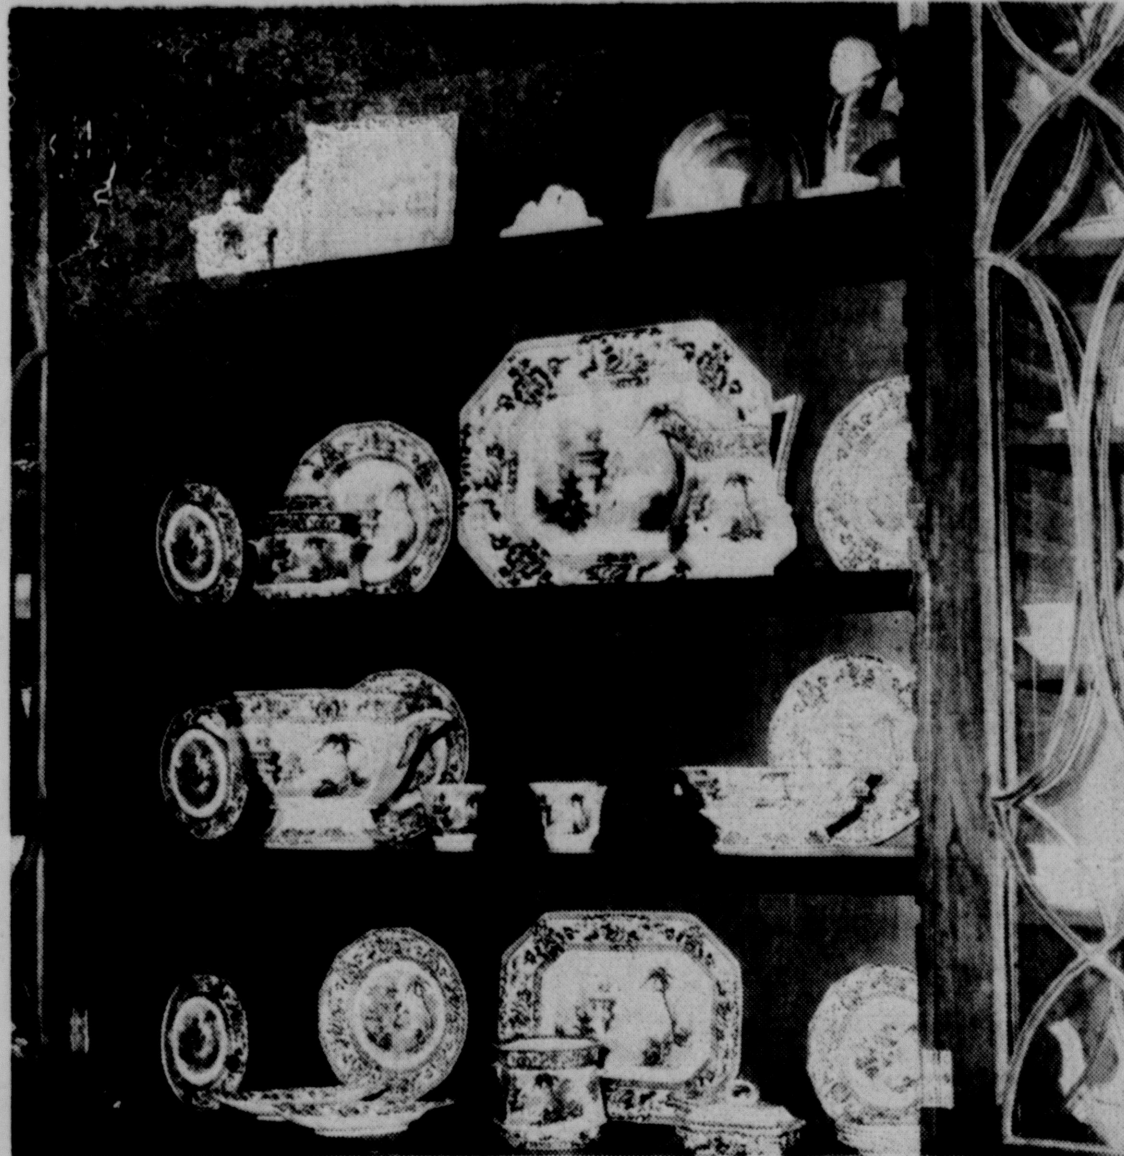

From Other Sources The works at Longport were opened in 1793 by John Davenport, who made Stone China as well as earthenware. John Davenport believed in employing the best artists obtainable to decorate his wares, and he made very choice and handsome dinner and tea services, as well as many minor pieces. He got some of the artists from Derby to work for him, and his porcelain sets, which were made later, were very fine.

Visitors to the museum will be able to view these fine examples of Davenport's Cyprus pattern along with many other historic and artistic items of the Hudson Valley on display during museum hours. The Senate House Museum is part of the Old Stockade area of the city and is near the site of the recent archeological find which received international attention as the first evidence of an early Dutch fortification in the New World.

Snyder found Trotsky's Communist program for demand for "disarming the bourgeoisie and arming the workers, of creating a Communist army..." to insure quick Communist victory in guerilla warfare. The American Rifleman explained that "bourgeoisie" was a French word for middle class which Communist twisted into an "epithet" or dirty word for anyone who disagreed with them. In his editorial, Snyder quoted Stalin's statement that "if the opposition disarms, well and good. If it refuses to disarm, we shall disarm it ourselves." PERRINE'S BRIDGE, oldest covered bridge in New York State and one of only 1500 remaining in the country, was built in 1844. Spanning the Wallkill River from Rifton to Rosendale (which was then on the main highway leading to downstate New York), it is the only remaining example in the state of the Burr Arch-Truss type. Perrine's Bridge was restored in 1969 by joint grants from the New York State Historic Trust and the County of Ulster through the efforts of a local citizens' membership group.

Pike Watercolor Recalls Area Heritage

This watercolor, one of four especially painted by John Pike for the Kingston Savings Bank, is displayed proudly in the Bank's lobby at 273 Wall Street, Kingston, reminding us of our area's rich heritage.

Over the years, bridges have often provided poets and philosophers with the symbolism used to illustrate "crossing over" from one way to a better way—from failure to success, from misunderstanding to understanding, (as in "bridging the generation gap").

For several generations now, savings accounts at Kingston Savings Bank have provided bridges to better things for families, and first mortgage loans have bridged the financial gap between the average family and home ownership.

Founded in 1874, Kingston Savings Bank has been a proud partner in the steady growth of the greater Kingston area. It remains confident in the energies of the area's peoples and is always improving its services and facilities to provide the best for them.

Salt Pile—Two Wards Up in Arms Now

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON Residents of the 11th and 13th Wards of the City of Kingston vowed they would draw up a petition and take it to city hall in efforts to block the proposed move of a large pile of rock salt from its present location on Tremper Avenue to an area off Barman and Wilbur Avenues situated on the boundary of the two wards.

This action followed an "informational meeting" called by Alderman Edward M. Norton (D-11th Ward) and Titus B. Sims (R-13th Ward) at which George E. Radcliffe, building inspector, Joseph Schrowang, which handles the salt, and Schrowang's attorney, Edward T. Feeney, spoke on plans and problems which might arise from the proposed move.

The more than 30 residents who were at the meeting held in the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church Tuesday night were told by Schrowang and Feeney that the salt would be stored in a 90-foot gully on property behind Schrowang's house.

The plans, as they now stand, call for the building of a Penn-

Central Railroad spur to the rear of the site and the construction of enclosed conveyors and pole sheds to house the salt, which would be trucked out through Wilbur Avenue over a new road.

Residents concerned about possible damage the salt might do to their homes and property were told by Radcliffe that in correspondence from the American Testing Laboratories he was informed that "salt will not affect anything unless activated by water" and that salt dust alone would harm nothing.

At this point, one resident

Palmer, cooperative extension agent with the Agricultural Division of the Ulster County Cooperative Extension Association in The Freeman: "Salt can be very detrimental to trees, not only in root areas but in the air where it can cause dehydration." Another told of going to the Tremper Avenue site where it is "quite obvious to the eye that trees are damaged."

Another fact which disturbed residents was that the salt is stored in Kingston when it is mainly used by areas other than the city. Al Eisele, of 96 Green-kill Avenue, said "I cannot understand why this salt pile has to be dumped in the center of the city of Kingston. The central part of the city is becoming a dumping grounds," to which those in attendance responded with loud applause.

Schrowang explained that the salt must be located on a main line of the railroad in order to get prompt delivery in emergencies and that it cannot be stored elsewhere in the county because of possible contamination to drilled wells through seepage. "It's the ideal spot," said Schrowang, to which Eisele replied, "It's the ideal spot because you are a businessman and it's ideal for you."

The major reason Schrowang gave for the proposed move from the Tremper Avenue site was that not enough salt can be stored there at once to fill contracts. About 20,000 tons maximum can be stored at the Tremper Avenue site, whereas about 50,000 tons are expected to be stored at the new site, explained Schrowang.

Numerous other questions were raised about trucking, noise, water which runs in the gully at present and possible salt damage, all of which Schrowang attempted to answer. However, most in attendance were not apparently satisfied.

"We are definitely, immediately getting up a petition," said Eisele after the meeting.

"We're going to have to go through channels."

Feeney told The Freeman, "We will do everything we can to correct any problem."

Also following the meeting, both Sims and Norton told The Freeman they thought the meeting was very informative. Both commended Schrowang and Feeney for taking the time, and having the concern to come before the citizens.

Norton said he was continuing to keep his mind open on the subject, and what happens next "is entirely up to the people and Schrowang."

On the other hand, Sims said that although he felt the meeting was informative, he felt "several questions weren't answered in entirety." Sims said he was concerned about dehydration of trees and blowing salt dust. "Once I get adequate assurance of proper safeguards for concerned citizens in the area I will withdraw my opposition," he concluded.

"Everything is now under control," said Mayor Peter Sipperley Monday night, with water from the old plant east of the village being used in conjunction with several wells and water from the Landsman Kill.

The new plant has been in operation for slightly more than a year. The failure was identified by Sipperley, a plumbing contractor by trade, as a cone valve which failed to shut off.

The problem was discovered early Sunday morning when users found that no water was coming from their taps.

One of these residents was Water Department Superintendent Levi Claeyen of Cramer Road, who turned on his tap at 6:30 a.m. According to Sipperley, Claeyen at first thought it was a leak, took a ride down by the Hudson River to the gleaming plant, opened the door and saw that everything Six portable pumps were used to drain the plant of the half-million gallons of water with the help of fire companies from Rhinebeck, Rhinecliff, Hillside, Fairview, Staatsburg and Roosevelt.

While it was advised early Sunday that residents conserve their water, if they had any, there has been no problem in supplying water since then, said Sipperley.

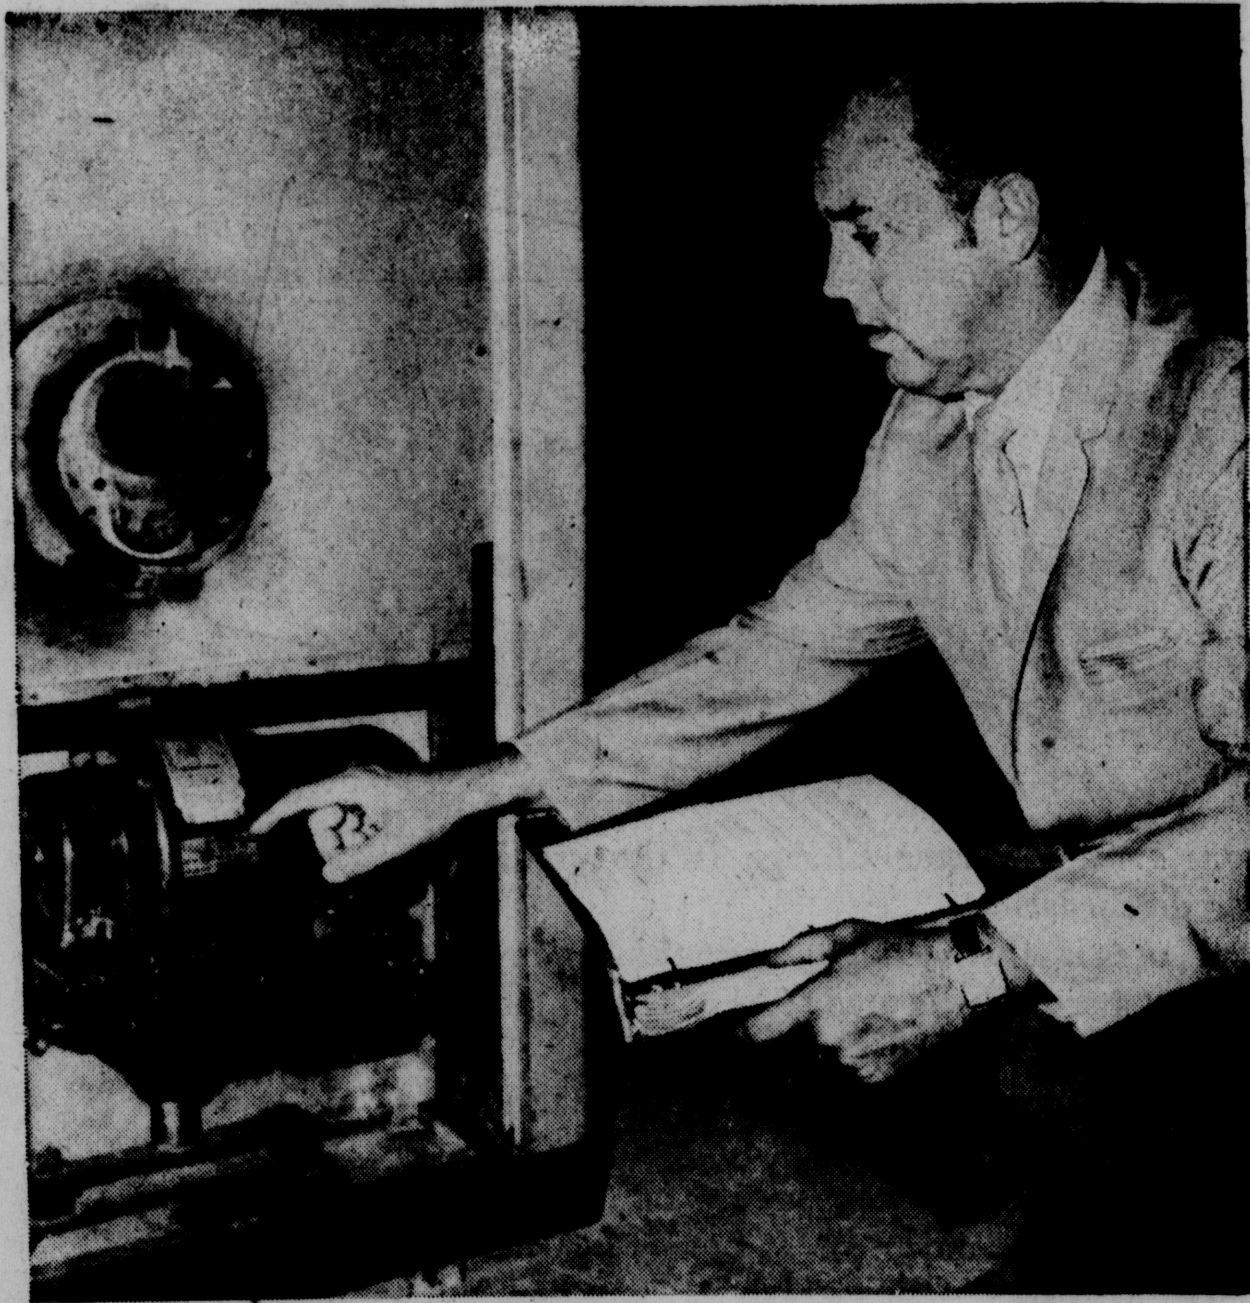

The extent of the damage cannot be ascertained right away, said the mayor, although it will take some time to get the $1.2 million plant back in operation.

All motors must be removed and taken to Kingston to "break them out," checking for damaged electrical fixtures.

Many electrical fixtures were submerged for some time. In addition, caustic soda flooded into the basement when a tank sprung a leak. The crews will move in to take out the machinery and begin an inspection to determine damages.

Arrest Teeners, Woman; Body In Dutchess

HOPEWELL JUNCTION, N.Y. — Four teen-agers and a 45-year-old woman were arrested Monday after sheriff's deputies found the body of a 17-year-old boy whose death was attributed to drug use.

The body of Jeffrey Stewart of this community south of Poughkeepsie was discovered in a barn Sunday.

According to the Dutchess County Sheriff's Department, the youth's companions were seeking a way to cover up the death, but it was reported by a tipster.

An autopsy showed that Stewart died of pulmonary edema resulting from barbiturate intoxication.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mayers, the owner of the property, was charged with maintaining a criminal nuisance. She was ordered held at the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail.

The sheriff's office alleges that her property has been used periodically by persons taking drugs.

Mrs. Mayers' 16-year-old son, Alfred, Michael Case, 19, Philip Penni, 17, and Russell Mathers, 18, all of Hopewell Junction, were charged with conspiracy and failure to report a death. They appeared before a justice of the peace. Innocent pleas were entered for them and further action was scheduled for Sept. 2.

Upstate Couple Held in Death Probe of Son

NORTH SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — Charles and Marlene Henson were arrested Monday and charged with criminally negligent homicide in connection with the death of the four-year-old son.

Village police said there was the "appearance of multiple bruises over 95 percent of the boy's body." The Onondaga County medical examiner's office said there would be no comment on the death until further examination.

The boy, Kip Henson, was declared dead on arrival Sunday at Saint Joseph's Hospital in nearby Syracuse.

Charles, 29, and Marlene, 25, were arraigned before Clay Town Justice Harry Heath. The Hensons, who have three other children, requested an adjournment to consult a lawyer and Heath ordered them held without bail until a hearing Aug. 31.

"It wasn't the fuel, it was the burner that needed switching!"

"A tempting sales talk almost caused us to switch to another fuel until we discussed our heating problem with our heating oil supplier. A furnace check by his burner serviceman showed that we could save almost 30% in fuel bills by modernizing our present furnace. The difference in cost between modernizing our oil furnace and switching to another fuel was over $600 . . . not to mention the future fuel savings." Get all the facts before making any changes in your heating system. Contact your heating oil supplier and see if you are one of the hundreds of homeowners in this area who could save up to 30% on your heating bills by modernizing your oil burner.

Betty Grable Proves She's an Able Comedienne

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

"Born Yesterday" has been so completely identified with the late Judy Holliday that no student of theatre could be blamed for questioning the possible success of any other actress in the role of Billie Dawn.

In both the stage and movie versions, Miss Holliday established herself as an institution — one of the most adorable kooks in theatre history. Her supreme artistry as the dumb blonde of American legend made Billie uniquely typical. Yet those who remember her performance retain memories of a delightful comedienne who proved that while blondes have their share of fun, a lot of smart rubs off along the way to make them as bright in the belfry department as they are on the ornamentation market.

Essential to the part, it had always seemed, was a youthful clan that could only be captured by a fresh-faced actress of tender years, with a voice born of the Bronx or Brooklyn.

Finis to Theory

Until Monday night, we had always had strong feelings that the role should have been retired with Miss Holliday, just as Casey Stengel's number was retired recently. But the current revival of "Born Yesterday" at Hyde Park Playhouse forces us to abandon such thoughts. Betty Grable is Billie Dawn in all her nutty, happy-go-lucky, growing wiser day-by-day glory.

And why not? Miss Grable is every bit as all-American Blonde as anyone who has ever claimed the title. She brought to dozens of movie musical comedies the lightness of touch required of the role. And, although more than two decades have passed since she was the "Pin-Up Girl" of U.S. troops around the globe, she is still the authentic personification of "beautiful blonde."

That she is older in years than one would surmise the Billie Dawn of the script to be, does not mar her interpretation of the role. Indeed, she uses her maturity to advantage; is over-poweringly feminine, as befits the mistress of a self-made millionaire junkman. To the bravado and bluster required of Billie, Miss Grable adds the all woman virtues of beauty, charm, flirtatiousness and vulnerability.

Throughout the Hyde Park production, which opened last night for a one week run through Aug. 29, she is the personification of a delightful kook who gets what she wants in the smoke-filled backrooms of Washington, D.C. the singing-dancing Grable of the fabulous legs, remembered as one of the prettiest faces in Twentieth Century Fox films of the past, has effectively bridged the years. A better actress than ever, she shows us what made Garson Kanin's finest comedy the excellent play it has remained.

She gives a vivacious and spirited performance and she keeps the audience laughing. The stage is mostly hers at Hyde Park this week, and she rarely disappoints.

The rest of the cast is competent, but this is a comedy about a marvelously unique kook, one of the best characterizations ever drawn, along with Truman Capote's Holly Golightly. It is, therefore, a pleasure to report that the part and the personality suit Miss Grable better than we might have imagined.

Hyde Park's production of "Born Yesterday" has been directed with smooth humor; is slick, laugh-filled, and a comedy to remember other comedies by. It is stageworthy and funny, and it is star Grable, period. She makes a good job of it by looking glowingly well and by bringing enthusiasm to the role of a genuinely original and zany girl whose mindlessness is not exactly what it seems.

Nigerian Student Visiting New Paltz

Nohowa S. P. Omoregie, a Nigerian graduate student, is on an American homestay visit in New Paltz during the last three weeks of August. While in New Paltz Omoregie is residing with Mr. and Mrs. Lee H. Pritchard and children

Charles, LeeAnne, and Paulette at 8 South Oakwood Terrace. Pritchard is assistant professor of Music at the College in New Paltz. His wife is employed as an elementary school music teacher in the Highland Central School system.

In September, Omoregie will fly to New Mexico to attend the University in Albuquerque where he will work toward a PhD in Electrical Engineering. He is also interested in computer programming and plans to tour the IBM facilities in Poughkeepsie before he leaves for school.

Lagos, the Capital and largest city in Nigeria, is Omoregie's home, where he was employed by the E.C.N. Headquarters of the System Operations Marina. His father is a Civil Engineer and his mother works with a social welfare agency in Lagos.

The American homestay program is arranged through the Experiment in International Living. The Experiment, an independent, nonprofit, educational exchange organization, was founded by Dr. Donald B. Watt in 1932. Since then, more than 25,000 young Americans have lived with families on six continents. A similar number of visitors from 100 nations have enjoyed homestays with families in the United States.

Fiscal support of Experiment programs is received from four major sources: participants' fees, foundation grants, government contracts, and voluntary contributions from alumni, trustees and friends. Mrs. Pritchard was a member of The Experiment while in College in 1962, and during one semester lived with a Belgian family in Antwerp while she attended the Royal Conservatory of Music there, studying with the internationally famed organist, Flor Peeters.

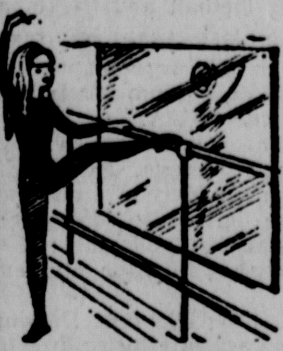

In addition to the headquarters in Putney, Vermont, regional offices are maintained in Boston, Chattanooga, Chicago, New York, San Francisco and Washington. A U.S. — European office is located in Brussels, Belgium. Experiment programs are arranged with and conducted through national offices and representations in more than 60 countries abroad.

In addition to its Incoming and Outbound programs, The Experiment co-operates with U.S. college and universities in arranging academic programs abroad, and conducts intensive short-term language instruction at its School for International Training in Brattleboro, Vermont, where The Experiment has trained more Peace Corps units for overseas service than any other private voluntary organization.

The heart of almost every Experiment program is the homestay. The Experiment feels that this one activity is responsible for more international understanding between peoples than any other part of its program.

Local Women Return Home After Visit to Scandanavian Countries

Mrs. Ruth Augustine of Kingston and her friend, Miss Johanna Hansen, recently returned from a visit to the Scandanavian Countries where they took the Happy Holland Tour, the Fairland Tour of Denmark and the Viking Toru of the Fjords in Norway.

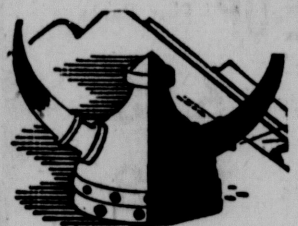

Mrs. Augustine retired from IBM on July 31, 1969. Miss Hansen is employed by IBM of Kingston. They went to Europe aboard the S.S. Nieuw Amsterdam and returned aboard the S.S. Beigensjord.

Mrs. Augustine is a descendant of Pieter van Stoutenburg who sailed to America from Amersfoort, Holland in 1638. More than three centuries later, Mrs. Augustine stood in the spot where in earlier days the castle of her ancestors was located.

During the two months visit, the two women visited the Netherlands and Stoutenburg. Mrs. Augustine says, "It was very exciting to know that your ancestors lived here ages ago." She admitted her visit to Stoutenburg was the most important reason for her trip to Europe.

The family castle was completely destroyed in the nineteenth century. In 1880 it was rebuilt but not at the original site. The only reminders of those days now are two old oak trees, Adam and Eve, and it is assumed they formerly stood at the entrance of the driveway to the castle.

One of the trees carries the inscription: "These trees were planted by Johan von Oldenbarnevelt at the time of Lord Van Stoutenburg." The family of the Stoutenburgs are a closely knit group in the United States. Each year in Hyde Park, N.Y., a reunion is held at which about 50 members of the family participate, and the number increases annually. The 37th annual meeting of the Stoutenburg-Teller Association is scheduled to take place October 3.

The grandson of Pieter von Stoutenburg, Jacobus, sailed in 1742 with his wife and children as the first white man up the Hudson River and established himself south of Crum Elbow Creek, among the Indians who were hospitable and friendly to them. Jacobus called the little colony Stoutenburg which was later changed to Hyde Park. The reunions in Hyde Park are organized by the Stoutenburgs and Tellers Association. The wife of Jacobus was Margaret Teller. From all over America the descendants of Pieter von Stoutenburg come to the East Coast. But the reunion is not the only event which brings the family together. Every year in the summer, a tremendous picnic is held in Ohio where sometime 200 members of the family participate.

The women remarked about the cleanliness of the country and were amazed at the number of bicycles on the roads. There are very few old cars by comparison to this country and the weather is much colder.

Mrs. Augustine and Miss Hansen originally planned to stay in Amersfoort for three days but because the boat arrived a day later than expected at Rotterdam, they had to cut their trip short one day.

They enjoyed a three day journey through the Netherlands and travelled to Norway via Denmark from where Miss Hansen migrated to America in 1929, and finally to Sweden.

An account of their journey appeared in the Amersfoortsche Courant, a newspaper in Holland.

For Wiggie First Since '63

WOODSTOCK

Wiggie is back!

The golfing grandmother—Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) DeLisio, the winningest woman golfer in Ulster County history, has captured her first Woodstock Country Club title since 1963.

Her 36-hole total of 158 not only broke the 160 barrier, but also gave her a solid 11-stroke margin over the defending champion, Mrs. Harry Kennedy.

Wiggie carved out an 80 in the first round, then fired 39-39-78 in the finale. In a grand flourish she finished with a birdie-2 from the Abominable Eighteenth Tee for women.

"Getting a birdie from that tee gave me the biggest kick of all," quipped the now eight-time champion.

There was a time in the mid-1950s when she was without peer in Ulster County. Starting in 1955, she won six consecutive club championships. Her next one didn't come until 1963 and from then until this year there was none.

In between were two hip operations and a slow, but steady recovery of her physical strength and the magic of her game.

"It's always nice to win a championship," she said. "But, really, I got a real charge out of the birdie on the 18th. The opening to the green is narrow but I hit a good 5-wood shot about 18 inches from the cup."

Mrs. Kennedy, a three-time champion in her own right, took second place with 85-84-169. Mrs. Allen Dean Alwyn placed third with 89-87-176 and Mrs. George Rusk was fourth in the four-player flight with 89-88-177.

Mrs. Joseph Fitzsimons posted 91-87-178 to win First Flight honors by an 8-stroke margin over runner-up, Mrs. Alex

Wiggie and Marcelous Chapeau

Sharpe Jr., who carded 90-95-185. Mrs. Burton Schoenbach claimed third place with 92-95-187.

Mrs. David Fogel survived a late charge by Mrs. John Sprague to take Second Flight honors by a one-stroke edge.

Mrs. Fogel led 100-107 at the end of 18 holes but Mrs. Sprague's 97 sliced six strokes off the lead, as Mrs. Fogel finished 100-103-203 for the win.

Suspend Buffalo For Year

BUFFALO (AP) — The State University at Buffalo has been placed on a year's probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) for rules violations involving financial aid and academic eligibility.

The probation, announced Monday from the NCAA's headquarters in Kansas City, Mo., carries no sanctions or penalties against the university's athletic program.

The aid issue involved four athletes who receive $2,550 a year each for tuition, living expenses and other costs as part of a program for selected students from disadvantaged backgrounds.

The stipend is $550 higher than the $2,000 athletic-scholarship limit set by the NCAA for the university.

The other infraction, the NCAA said, involved the attendance at football and basketball practice last year by seven freshmen who were not working at the 1.6 minimum grade level set by the NCAA.

In announcing the probation, Warren S. Brown, NCAA Enforcement Division director, said the university "discovered its violations and moved to remedy the situation immediately."

Football coach Bob Deming, who was acting athletic director when the infractions occurred, said:

"We took the situation immediately to the NCAA infraction committee. We wanted to clear the matter. We expected a reprimand and a censure, but certainly not the probation, although that doesn't seem as bad as it sounded originally."

Buffalo was one of four schools called on the carpet by the NCAA Monday.

St. Norbert College of West De Pere, Wis., was placed on probation for a year, while Southern University at Baton Rouge, La., and Jackson (Miss.) State College were reprimanded for various infractions.

The university three times has asked the NCAA to revise its grant-in-aid rules to allow for special treatment of disadvantaged athletes but without success.

Yachts in Showdown

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Intrepid and Valiant meet today in their series to decide the U.S. representative in the America's Cup yacht racing match.

The American finalists were paired after the New York Yacht Club America's Cup committee eliminated Heritage from the series Monday.

The committee has until Sept. 13 to name a defender for the cup match, to start two days later. The Australians and French have the same time to determine a challenger.

Intrepid and the Australian yacht Gretel II posted victories in preliminary matches Monday. Intrepid, revived from mothballs after winning the cup in 1967, defeated Heritage by seven minutes and 28 seconds over the 247.3-mile course. Gretel II defeated the French yacht France, by 1:32.

Robert D. Rowan said the event would be held Aug. 3-6 for a minimum purse of $200,000.

The course, designed by famed golf course architect Robert Trent Jones, has been the site of four U.S. Opens.

Three stakes races at Batavia Downs Monday night saw driver Billy Haughton the winner of two and a second-place finisher in the third.

In a nonbetting event for two-year-old trotting fillies, with a purse of $12,000, Haughton reined Real Cool to a 2½-length victory over Star Cloud. Lisadill ran third.

Later, in the first of two $11,000 races for two-year-old pacing colts, Haughton took Michael Hanover past heavily favored Adnan Lobell for a 1½-length victory and a return of $23.20.

The second division went to Count Bret, the 1-5 pick. Count Bret was timed at 2:03 3/5, the season record at the track for a two-year-old. Haughton brought Bret's Boy home in second place, with Dragon Hanover third. The winner paid $2.60.

Braves Need One Moore Win

KINGSTON the locals, 3 to 0, on six hits. Pardon the pun, but the Kingston Braves need just one win to wrap up the 1970 post-season Hudson Valley Rookie League playoffs tonight at Dietz Stadium.

That would be Charlie Moore, the people's choice to end it all against the Florida Comets, champions of the Southern Division in the 8 p.m. contest.

And the 100-odd fans who faithfully attend all Braves games are reminded to bring windbreakers.

Kingston leads in the series, 2 to 1, thanks to a pair of superlative pitching stints by Moore and Buster Narum, the Old Fox of the pitching staff.

Moore four-hit the hard-nosed Comets into submission, 4 to 1, to even the series at 1-1, after Gary Dross blanked the three hits allowed by Narum both Moore and Narum into the in the go-ahead game.

Jerry Hawkins is the top Kingston slugger with a .429 average with three hits in seven times at bat. Narum is one for two or .500.

Once past Dross and Hawkins, the averages on both sides reflect the dominance of a 2½ and pitching—usually the case in a short series. Neither side claims another batter over .300.

Bernie Schaeffer Jr., the Kingston shortstop is three for 11 at .274, with Dave Horton and Moore at .250. Four of the Comets—Leskis, Hernandez, Jarosz and Schaffer—are bracketed at .250 each.

Since the Braves hope there is no tomorrow, Manager Schaeffer has indicated he would not hesitate to throw the league.

Billy Tames—Old Nemesis

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Billy Casper is soft-spoken and mild-mannered, but he's a tiger on the golf course as the top money-winner on the PGA tour this year.

Casper gained sweet vengeance on one of his most frustrating layouts Monday, firing a three-under par 69 and winning the $160,000 Avco Classic by three strokes at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

"After that first round 81, the highest of my career, and failing to make the cut for the first time since 1964, I guess I was more determined this year," Casper said after winning his fourth tournament this season.

Referring to his nightmarish play in the 1969 Avco on the same 7,212-yard course, the 39-year-old Masters champion gained some extra satisfaction in his 47th tournament victory.

Just one year ago, Casper vowed, "I'll be back. This course owes me a bundle." He kept his word and returned.

"I wanted to make amends," Billy said after finishing with a 72-hole total of 277, 11 under par, in the 72-hole tournament delayed by torrential rain Sunday.

"I came here just hoping to do well and was more determined, especially in the first rounds," he said. "You can't figure on winning because a lot of things have to go your way to win a tournament such as this. I thought 280 would win it, so I'm very happy to be three strokes lower."

Casper, who has won twice as many tournaments as anyone else on the tour this year, swept past Dick Nicklaus as the season's top money winner. He collected $32,000, boosting his 1970 earnings to $139,585.

Winner of six tournaments in 1968, Casper isn't ready for any vacation this year. After signing autographs for youngsters for more than an hour after his Avco victory, he looked ahead to the $300,000 Dow Jones starting Thursday.

"If I play the way I played today, I should do very well," he said. "I'd like to win another one before the year is out."

Casper carried a one-stroke lead into the final round. He started with a birdie 2 on the first hole and shook off all challenges, calmly pulling out of an 11-man log jam.

"It seemed every time someone came within one shot of me I made a birdie," Casper said.

"I felt real good out there. That rain-out was a blessing in disguise. I hadn't had a day off in about 2½ months and I think it helped."

Tom Weiskopf, bitterly disappointed and Ron Funseth, tied for second at 280. Funseth had a final round 66 while Weiskopf, an eight-time contender without a victory this year, faded to a 71.

"When I learn to putt, I will beat anybody," Weiskopf said. Trailing Weiskopf and Funseth, another stroke back, were five players—Charles Coody, Mac McLendon, Larry Hinson, Lou Graham and Larry Ziegler.

Frederickson Takes a Look Back
BROOKVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The year was 1964 and the names up for grabs in the National Football League draft included Gale Sayers, Joe Namath and Dick Butkus.

But the guy who went No. 1 was Tucker Frederickson. It is six seasons, two knee operations and a chipped ankle bone later, and Frederickson tries stoically to face what might have been.

But sometimes, when he isn't careful, he thinks back to those days when his name—and his potential—led all the rest.

"As far as living up to anything, I haven't. But it's not that I never tried. And it's not that I couldn't have. I think I could have," he says.

So did the New York Giants, who tapped the Auburn running back No. 1, saw him run, block and pass-catch with such natural ability and instincts in 1965 that there was little doubt they had made the right choice.

Then, in 1966, Frederickson ripped up his right knee, and in 1967 his left knee and, in 1969, when he thought he had overcome the mental problems connected with those injuries, ankle problems cropped up.

"I thought I was going to quit," he said. "I was 90 per cent sure. But when this season came around, I got caught in the fever of it. I had a talk with Alex (Giants' Coach Alex Webster) and the Maras (the club owners) and I'm here."

So he battles for a job, tries to ignore the past and catch himself whenever he thinks about the possibilities.

"It bothers me—not having

Domres New Find
(By Associated Press)
Young San Diego Chargers' quarterback Marty Domres is gaining a reputation as pro football's Frank Merriwell, the fictional hero of the '30s who was noted for gaining victory when defeat seemed certain.

Domres entered Monday night's exhibition game against the Chicago Bear in the fourth quarter, down 9-7. He guided his club 72 yards in 13 plays, handing off to Dick Post in an off tackle run for the final 14 yards to give San Diego a 14-9 win.

Domres completed three of five passes for 45 yards, including a clutch 21-yard shot to Gary Garrison on third-and-20 situation, before Dick Post ran 14 yards for the winning score with only 3:20 left to play.

The Charger defense held Gale Sayers to 25 yards in nine carries and Bear quarterback Bobby Douglass completed only 13 of 33 for 117 yards, but he scrambled 32 yards in four trips to lead Chicago on the ground.

The Have-Nots Steaming It Up

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Baltimore and Cincinnati, sitting on fat leads in the American League East and National League West races, hardly ever peek over their shoulders these days. But they ought to. There are some pretty good races going on back there.

The New York Yankees, a huge 11½ games back of the Orioles, are only one-half game up on Detroit in the battle for second place in the AL East after losing to Kansas City 8-7 Monday night. It was the first victory for the Royals in 10 games against the Yankees this season.

In the NL West, the Reds hold a hefty 12-game buge over Los Angeles following the Dodgers' 4-2 loss to Chicago. But the action is a notch lower where just one-half game separates San Francisco and Atlanta in the jockeying for third place. The Braves tightened it up by blanking Montreal 6-0 on George Stone's three-hit Thursday night.

All other teams had the day off.

The Yankees hadn't lost to the Royals all season but Kansas City made up for lost time by pounding Mel Stottlemyre and four relievers for 14 hits including three by Paul Schaal, who drove in four runs.

Schaal tripled home two runs in the third against Stottlemyre, then singled two more across as the Royals took the lead for keeps with three in the fifth. Tom Matchick also pitched in with a three-run double in the second.

Bobby Murcer delivered a pair of sacrifice flies as well as his 21st homer of the year for the Yankees.

Sports

Stone throttled Montreal, ending the Expos' five-game winning streak and moving the Braves within one-half game of idle San Francisco.

Leadoff man Mike Lum tagged Bill Stoneman for a first-pitch home run and Stone protected the narrow lead until the seventh when the Braves busted loose for five more runs—four of them unearned. Rico Carty, Clete Boyer and Gil Garrido all contributed RBI-singles to that rally.

Stone struck out seven and evened his record at 9-9.

The Cubs moved within 4½ games of first-place Pittsburgh and only 1½ back of New York in the tightening NL East race by knocking off the Dodgers.

Ferguson Jenkins won his 16th game, scattering eight hits. Joe Pepitone drove in Chicago's first two runs with his 19th homer of the year.

Pleads Guilty On Possession Of Stolen Goods

WALLKILL
An 18-year-old New Paltz youth was arrested in Suffolk County Monday by State Police on warrants issued by Town Justice Fred Earl of the Town of Shawangunk charging the defendant with criminal possession of stolen property and escape.

Graham Jr., of Old King's Road, New Paltz, was arraigned before Justice Earl. He pleaded guilty to criminal possession of stolen property and innocent to the escape charge. Sentencing was deferred until August 26 and the youth was held in $1,000 bail.

According to Highland State Police, Graham was taken into custody earlier this month by a Town of Shawangunk constable, accused of having in his possession automobile tires that allegedly had been stolen. After his arrest, Graham escaped from the constable and a state police file check located him in Suffolk County where he was arrested.

Dear Abby

Likes 'em 'Preserved'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I know a lot of men go for young girls, but my husband is just the opposite, and that's my problem.

There's a woman in town with one of those long-legged, slim-waisted figures, and she has to be at least 45 years old. Well, my husband can't keep his eyes off her, and he is only 30.

Even though it's out of his way, he drives by her house every morning on his way to work, hoping to get a glimpse of her. Abby, I'm ashamed to tell you some of the things I've thought of doing to try to get her to move. I know it's not her fault, but I could explode every time I think of how my husband drools over this old lady.

How can a person her age be so well preserved?

CURIOUS IN TOPEKA
DEAR CURIOUS: I don't know what kind of "preservative" she uses, but I'm sure she isn't pickled in alcohol.

And what makes you think a woman past 45 is ready for the glue factory? The world is full of women who will never see 60 again who have more pizzazz than dollies one-third their age.

DEAR ABBY: After reading the letter from the woman whose husband wanted her to put on sheer black underwear, high heel shoes, and let him tie her up with ropes, I got the courage to write in with my problem.

You see, my husband likes me to get completely undressed, except for my shoes, and put on a dumb trench coat, and then go riding around town with him for about half an hour. He says that just knowing I have nothing on underneath the trench coat "arouses" him. Of course, he is fully clothed. He says it will "arouse" me, too.

Well, I did it once, and it didn't arouse me. It scared me half to death.

Abby, I just hate that idea, but he keeps fighting with me to go along with it. I keep thinking, "If we should have an accident, what would the police and the people at the hospital think of a girl riding around with nothing on but a trench coat?"

My husband claims I am childish and inhibited. I don't think I am, Abby. I love him, and this is the first plan for arousal I've refused to go along with. Is there something wrong with me?

TRENCH COAT
DEAR TRENCH: No. Your husband likes to live dangerously. Tell him he'd better come up with another plan for "arousment" — but to keep it within the privacy of your four walls.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you mentioned that 15 minutes ought to be long enough to wait dinner for tardy guests before going ahead with a meal.

A few years ago we invited my brother and his wife to a family dinner on Christmas Eve. Since they have a reputation for always being late, we told them the dinner would be a six o'clock, and we invited everyone else for seven.

At EIGHT o'clock they telephoned, saying they were still downtown shopping and had some presents to wrap yet, so they'd be detained a little longer, and we had better go ahead and start eating without them. Of course we did.

Well, they arrived FIFTY-FOUR hours later! What I would like to know is, is this some kind of record?

REYNOLDSBURG, OHIO

DEAR OHIO: Probably not — but close!

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that Sweden and the United States have exactly the same attitude toward deserters and draft dodgers. This is true as long as you don't look upon the reality. Because in the papers it says just what you said, but if you think of what really would happen to a United States deserter or draft dodger versus a Swedish one, there sure is a difference.

An American fellow who escapes to Sweden would be able to stay there for seven years without even thinking about being drafted. After those seven years he would become a Swedish citizen and get drafted for the Swedish army, which hasn't been in any war for over 150 years!

But a Swede staying in America for more than six months could get drafted into the fighting United States Army.

If I had to make the choice, that would be easy for me.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: a responsible person. Be happy at your work, too. Use your intuition more since it is working very accurately.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get together with those you consider to be your associates. Plan the future more intelligently than in the past. Avoid higher-ups who criticize without reason. Handle public affairs with care.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Delve into work ahead of you with enthusiasm and forget to go out for pleasure. Impress co-workers with your ability to forge ahead now. Special attention to make is important tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you entertain others charmingly they will give you their good will in the future. Show that you have a fine sense of humor. Make sure you keep promises or you get into trouble.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Avoid associates who have radical changes in mind that are not good. They will change their minds soon. You have the power of the planets with you and can start an upturn in all of your affairs.

YES OR NO? (Q.) I want to know how I can find out whether I love the boy I am going with. We plan to get married when I get out of school. That will be in two years, when I am 18.—Not sure in Newark, N. J.

(A.) There is no precise test for true love.

The best way to find the boy you really want to marry is to look around. This is the time for you to be looking around, not deciding.

Between now and graduation from high school, you should go with several boys, not just one.

In doing so, you will be better able to decide, when the time comes, which boy you want to marry, to be the father of your children, and to spend your life with.

BOY'S WEAR: (Q.) My boy friend wears sloppy clothes on dates. He wants me to dress sloppily, too. He says it's more comfortable, and that all the boys in our group dress sloppily, so the girls should, too.

I think he is wrong. I spend at least two hours before a date trying to look nice. He has nice clothes and could do the same thing. Please don't tell me to find another boy — we're practically engaged.—Holdout in Tulsa, Okla.

(A.) Casual dress is the fashion today. But a boy should not mind "dressing up" now and then and taking his girl someplace special.

If the boy, however, dresses shabbily as a mark of his belief and refuses to depart from "protest-type" clothing, then his girl friend has to decide whether she can live with his ways and his beliefs. It is not an easy decision to make. You may nevertheless have to make it.

Some 'Impossible' Changes

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jim Phelps, intrepid leader of the "Mission: Impossible" team, is cutting it out as a weekly series. The series also will abandon the weekly scene in which Phelps looks over a batch of pictures and picks his group for the derring-do. It seemed a futile exercise, anyway, since each time he picked just about the same people—Gregg Morris, Peter Lupus, Leonard Nimoy. Occasionally there was a male guest star and last season, after the departure of Barbara Bain, there were an assorted number of lady agents. This season, however, Lesley Warren has been signed as a regular.

A bigger change for "Mission: Impossible" will be its shift from a late Sunday spot, with an early evening position on Saturdays, when there is a large children's audience.

The series will rearrange its habits to follow the program, but inevitably the program will be exposed to a new audience. "There will be a difference in the scripts," promised Graves. "We'll be cutting out so many stories about South American dictators and Iron Curtain plotters."

He spoke while standing in the center of a set which looked like the square of some Iron Curtain town, complete with fountain and live pigeons.

"We're trying to smuggle the daughter of an important official out of the country," explained the actor.

"Trip to Nowhere," an NBC special on youth and drug abuse broadcast Monday night, covered what has become rather familiar TV territory and which is still shocking. It was most effective when demonstrating how one city, Phoenix, Ariz., has marshalled community forces to combat an almost epidemic-sized drug problem and, at the same time, carried on preventive work.

Harold S. (Mike) Vanderbilt died on July 4, just two days before his 86th birthday. Oswald Jacoby is taking over today's column to tell something about the inventor of contract bridge.

Mike was a perfectionist. One reason why he successfully defended the America's Cup three times was that he learned everything possible about sailing conditions where the races would be held.

When he invented contract in 1925, he did such a good job that his original law have continued with practically no change. No-trump became 40 for the first trick and 30 thereafter, instead of 35 a trick, to get rid of the odd fives and the penalties have been slightly reduced, but slam and rubber bonuses and the vulnerable feature are unchanged.

He played in his Vanderbilt tournament several times and won it once with his favorite partner, Waldemar von Zedtwitz. He also won the American Whist League pairs and team with me in 1935. Here is one of the hands that helped us win the team:

I opened the three of clubs. Mike was a studious player and he thought over his first play for several minutes. I could see South getting more and more nervous as Mike thought. Finally, Mike produced the

VC Mortars Kill 14 in the Delta

SAIGON (UPI)—The Viet yet to be counted. Military spokesmen said 1,500 Cambodian defenders halted the attack by an estimated 3,000 Communist troops at a point nine miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

Five 82mm mortar rounds exploded in Ba Chuc Market, 110 miles west-southwest of Saigon early today. All but one of the victims were civilians, military spokesmen said.

Nearly 400 miles to the north, fighting broke out near fire base O'Reilly, one of several artillery outposts overlooking Communist infiltration routes from Laos into South Vietnam.

Communist spokesmen said they had "numerous bodies" which had Laos and 26 miles southeast of Hue.

Military spokesmen reported one U.S. 101st Airborne Division soldier was killed and five were wounded in fighting three miles northwest of the base. South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division troops killed seven Communist troops Monday at a cost of three wounded of O'Reilly. One 20 rounds of 60mm mortar fire hit another government unit nearby, causing "light" casualties, spokesmen said.

U.S. spokesmen said one American was killed and nine wounded in two booby trap incidents Monday and three men were wounded in a clash in Quang Ngai Province on the upper coast.

The battle at Prek Tameak was the second in less than a week. In fighting there six days ago, the Cambodian command had been sweeping the area as Communist troops at a cost of 19 government troops dead.

Six Cambodian battalions have been sweeping the area as part of the defense of Phnom Penh's environs although military spokesmen said only about 1,500 government troops were involved in the latest fighting. They were aided by mortar equipped riverboats and Allied air strikes.

Communiques also reported a Viet Cong attack against Saang, 20 miles south of Phnom Penh. Cambodian defenders called in air strikes and broke up the attack, military spokesmen said.

Spokesmen said Viet Cong troops carried out overnight mortar attacks against the encircled city of Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of Phnom Penh in what has become an almost daily occurrence. The city has been under siege more than a month.

Reports from Saigon said U.S. B52 bombers hit targets near the Laotian border in northernmost Quang Tri Province, which adjoins the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams.

The raids were flown in an area in which North Vietnamese troops have been massing and supplies near a series of Allied artillery bases which overlook Communist infiltration routes from Laos into South Vietnam.

Military sources said the U.S. Command had cut the number of B52 sorties from 1,500 to 1,000 a week. A sortie is one flight by one aircraft.

The U.S. Command reported that Communist groundfire Monday shot down a U.S. Army Kiowa helicopter 27 miles north of Saigon. One crewman was killed and three others wounded.

Vietnam to Middle East Topics for Nixon

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP)—President Nixon, bolstered by reports that inflation is cooling down, turned his attention today to hotspots of foreign policy

Kissinger and Joseph Sisco, assistant secretary of state for Middle East affairs, for a Western White House meeting.

Their talks come at about the same time the first formal Middle East peace talks begin at U.N. headquarters in New York.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the President planned to review the whole range of foreign policy and he played down any special significance to the gathering.

All three officials were on hand Monday to join Nixon in greeting 48 new executives from 13 Western states who received a foreign policy briefing and a Mexican luncheon served around the swimming pool at Nixon's oceanside home here.

Another poolside party was scheduled this evening for 125 California Republican candidates and their spouses. They are campaigning for offices ranging from state boards and legislature to Congress.

In work sessions Monday, Nixon concentrated on the state of the nation's economy with a foursome of key economic officials and got good news.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, reported afterwards that Nixon was told his anti-inflation policies are beginning to show results and the economic picture is "quite encouraging."

There is evidence of "deacceleration in the price level," with the cost-of-living index rising less rapidly, and interest declining, McCracken said.

"The evidence seems to be fairly clear that it has been possible to cool off a highly overheated domestic economy without throwing the economy into a very sharp recession or depression," he said.

In July, McCracken noted, business activity showed modest increases, industrial production rose modestly, personal income was up a little, retail sales were up some, and housing starts were up a little more.

The inflationary situation has been a very stubborn, difficult thing to counter," McCracken said, but he said it seems "the evidence now is fairly clear that the economy is now responding to these administration policies."

Besides McCracken, the four-some included Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns, and George Schultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Agnew, Park Disagreement

SEOUL (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew spent six hours with South Korean President Park Chung-Hee today—three times the scheduled length of the meeting. Some U.S. officials said the meeting ended with the two leaders in disagreement.

"It appears to be a delicate situation," said one American official.

One U.S. official said Park raised matters which Agnew did not expect and the vice president was seeking advice from the White House.

Park's administration has raised strong protests to the U.S. plan to withdraw 20,000 of the 64,000 American troops stationed in South Korea but Agnew has pledged delivery of 54 F4 Phantom jets and other military aid to the Seoul government to soften the impact of the troop withdrawal.

Park and Agnew was scheduled to continue their talks during a formal dinner given by the president in Agnew's honor tonight. The leaders originally had been scheduled to confer for two hours but the meeting stretched on for six hours.

Korea was the vice president's first stop on a tour of Asian nations to reassure the United States' Indochina allies and get reaction to the Nixon administration's Asian policies.

Agnew was scheduled to visit Taiwan next, then go to Thailand and South Vietnam. Official sources said Agnew also would make an unscheduled stop in Cambodia Friday afternoon to confer with the regime of Premier Lon Nol about possible U.S. military aid.

Before conferring with Park, Agnew talked with South Korean Premier Chung Il-Kwon for 20 minutes in a meeting in which Chung described the scope of North Korean incursions into the south.

The North Korean forays into the south have involved both landings on the South Korean Coast and overland incursions and Agnew's promise of military aid included the pledge of planes with special radar to detect boatloads of North Korean commandos.

The U.S. announcement of a troop cutback has brought sustained opposition in the Park government and the national assembly. In fact, Chung once publicly threatened to quit if the withdrawal was carried out.

ruled that none of the colleges or universities in the system could close their doors during the autumn electoral campaigns. However, the board did permit individual schools to set up their own programs for excusing students who want to take part in the campaigns.

Wisconsin Campus Explosion

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—The police dispatcher received the call at 3:40 a.m. Monday.

"Hey, pig," the voice said. "There's a bomb in the Math Research Building on the university campus. Clear the building."

Killed was Robert E. Fass, 33, father of three. His wife said he was catching up on research because the family planned to move Wednesday and then go on a vacation.

Injured were Paul Quin, 29, a research associate; Norbert Sutter, 27, a UW security guard; and David Schuster, 28, would "undoubtedly" been among the casualties.

A source in the fire department said a plastic type bomb was suspected. However, special agent Edward Hayes of the Milwaukee FBI office said investigators had not yet determined the exact type of explosive used.

Before conferring with Park, Agnew talked with South Korean Premier Chung Il-Kwon for 20 minutes in a meeting in which Chung described the scope of North Korean incursions into the south.

The North Korean forays into the south have involved both landings on the South Korean Coast and overland incursions and Agnew's promise of military aid included the pledge of planes with special radar to detect boatloads of North Korean commandos.

ruled that none of the colleges or universities in the system could close their doors during the autumn electoral campaigns. However, the board did permit individual schools to set up their own programs for excusing students who want to take part in the campaigns.

Ban Car-Leasing Deals

Authorities literally pieced together the first clue Monday night—a stolen truck in which the explosives were detonated. The truck was parked in a driveway near the math building. The force of the blast shredded the truck and for a time it was thought the explosion had occurred in the building.

Washington (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee has forbidden future cut-rate automobile leasing deals that put some senators behind the wheels of Lincoln Continentals for $750 a year.

In issuing the ruling as an advisory recommendation, the panel did not say which senators had accepted the low-cost leases from automobile manufacturers seeking to promote their cars by having celebrities drive them.

portedly had leased automobiles in what Stennis called "a promotional program of many years' standing."

Stennis said the committee found no evidence of wrongdoing or improper influence in connection with the leases.

Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. and General Motors Corp. all had acknowledged providing cut-rate cars to government officials and some members of the House and Senate as a promotional device.

The Continental leases, at $750 a year, were less than one-third the normal price for rental of the luxury cars.

After the ethics panel issued its report, a Ford official said:

The U.S. announcement of a troop cutback has brought sustained opposition in the Park government and the national assembly. In fact, Chung once publicly threatened to quit if the withdrawal was carried out.

Pieces of Truck Found
Madison Police Detective Stanley Davenport said small—but identifiable—pieces of the truck were found in the area of the destroyed six-story building.

He said the truck, a white 1967 Ford Falcon Econoline, was traced to its owner, Larry Travis of Madison. Travis told police the truck was stolen while he was vacationing in California.

Police Lt. Kenneth Buss said the dispatcher received the warning call at 3:40 a.m.

"At 3:42," Buss said, "the building exploded. There was a flash fire."
